WORLD'S FAIR SITE NOT YET FREE OF DEBRIS

Hundreds of Workmen, However, Are Rapidly Removing Litter From Grounds.

CLEAN BY MIDSUMMER

Management Assumes Labor Which Wrecking Concern Failed to Complete.

Midsummer may witness the restoration of Forest Park on the World's Fair site, but much remaining Exposition litter must be removed before the western half of the city's chief recreation ground is formally transferred to the people.

The work is being pushed, the Exposition management having taken upon itself the labor that the Chicago Wrecking Co. agreed to do under its general contract for the removal of all buildings and debris.

These conditions were learned by a Post-Dispatch reporter who traversed the grounds and talked with Walter B. Stevens, secretary of the Exposition company. Mr. Stevens said the wrecking company acknowledged its liability for failure to grade the hill where the United States Government Building stood and for failure to blast from their footings the solid concrete foundations upon which rested the operative plants in the Machinery Building.

Two Hundred Men at Work.

Two hundred men are now employed by the World's Fair corporation to complete the work left undone by the wrecking contractors. These laborers are working on the sites of the Varied Industries, Electricity, Transportation and Machinery buildings. Every vestige of construction has disappeared—from the plain that was occupied by the great Exposition palaces, but the top soil is coated with the powder of decaying staff.

Considerable work must be done to finish the River Des Peres channelway, which has been opened for its entire length across the park. Two other covered waterways, emptying into the river from the western limits of the site, must be reopened along their courses.

The hillside that formed the site of the United States Government building is in the condition left by the removal of the structure, no graveling having been attempted there. This is one of the important tasks left to the Exposition company. The former site of the City of Jerusalem has not been touched since the Holy City was carted away.

Grounds Have Been Graded.

Aside from these instances of delinquency the grounds show advanced evidences of being nearly ready to be called a park. The eastern half of the grounds, where stood the Palaces of Liberal Arts, Manufacturers', Mines and Mining, and Education has been graded and laid out in trees and shrubbery. The chain of lakes, including the original Post-Dispatch lake, has been completed and the water turned into the beds. Two automobile speedways and carriage drives, traversing the grounds from Skinker road to the present limits of Forest Park on the east are in a fine state of perfection.

Art Hill, the eminence on which the permanent Art Building stands and which formed the head of the grand basin and the cascades, has been graded and plotted with grass. The bases of the two pavilions that flanked Festival Hall, on either end of this semicircular slope, have been left as they were after the removal of the buildings, the idea being to mount bronze statues of the Atlantic and Pacific there, the staff models of which occupied these points during the Exposition period.

The hill west of the Art Building, on which Japan had its gardens, has been left in excellent condition. The Plateau of States, which was the reservation for the various state mansions, is the least marred portion of the park. Here the trees and grass show a luxuriant growth. Little evidence remains of the spots where these structures once stood.

Landscape gardeners are working on the extreme edges of the grounds, near the east line of Forest Park and on the Skinker road side. When their work is completed the final touches will be given in the center of the grounds, their movement converging in that direction.

Secretary Stevens says that the company expects to be able to complete its work and turn over the park to the city about the middle of the summer season.

Judgment Against Kurrus.

After a trial lasting three days a jury in the City Court of East St. Louis returned a verdict of $1690.10 damages in favor of John Schmidt against Frank J. Kurrus for the loss of his right eye. The addition of Schmidt's doctor bill to the actual damages accounts for the amount of the verdict. Kurrus' lawyers announced that a motion for a new trial would be made. Schmidt sued for the loss of his right eye, which was injured July 7, 1906, when Kurrus, in the course of a dispute, broke the glass in a telephone booth, a piece striking Schmidt's eye.

Band Concerts Sought.

The Tower Grove District Improvement Association discussed charter revision at its meeting Thursday night. Mayo Fesler of the Civic League said that the salaries of some city officers should be increased. A communication from the Shaw's Garden Improvement Association and the Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association was read in which the two associations expressed a willingness to meet for the purpose of coming to some agreement whereby Sunday band concerts in Tower Grove Park may be resumed this summer. The old officers were re-elected.

President Sits for New Portrait.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—President Roosevelt is sitting for a new portrait. A. Benzinger, the noted French artist, is doing the work for the Historical Society of Chicago. He has already had two sittings and the President will grant others. Eight years ago Mr. Benzinger painted a portrait of President McKinley, doing the work for Vice-President Hobart. This painting is regarded as one of the best ever made of the dead President.

That watch you saw, when you asked the time, was bought at Dalley's. Why not get one of your own. I have them from $10 up. $1 down, $1 week.

CORPORATION TAX ASKED BY FOLK

Governor Proposes Levy of 25 Cents on $1000 of Capital Stock.

APPROPRIATIONS VETOED

Senate Committee Perfects Amendments to the Quo-Warranto Bill.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 12.—Gov. Folk sent to the General Assembly today a message to the effect that he has been compelled to veto the general appropriation bill involving $2,500,000 and asking for the passage of two new bills in its place. The appropriation bill was so badly mixed in enrollment that it alone would have made an extra session necessary, even if there had been no call before.

The new bills asked for will be an appropriation bill to take the place of the one vetoed and a new revenue measure. The appropriation bill will cause a fight, as it did in the regular session The one question about which there are the greatest differences is the bill to appropriate money to pay for completing the new Supreme Court Building and furnishing the structure.

There were some things bought and put into the building before the Legislature appropriated the money to pay for them and the Legislature, being naturally jealous of its rights, finds little constitutional inhibitions that are supposed to make these purchases illegal.

The revenue sections of the Missouri Constitution are like the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. You can prove almost any action that may be taken to be illegal by reference to them.

The other bill is strictly a revenue measure. A corporation tax of one-twenty-fifth of one per cent on the capital stock of all corporations in the State. It has been for years only a matter of time until there would be a corporation tax in Missouri. Each session of the Legislature has taken it up in one form or another, but usually the amount of the tax proposed has been very large and attempts have been made to put the money into road funds and cities have fought the measures. This time the tax is light, 25 cents on every $1000 of capital stock of domestic corporations and a like amount on all the capital used in this State by corporations organized in other states or foreign countries. The money is to go into the general revenue fund and the passage of the bill asked for will be a great relief to the State Auditor, who is afraid the two years will end with an empty treasury and bills overdue and unpaid because the appropriations were much greater this year than ever before in the history of the State.

Readjustment of Finances.

The bill will take a considerable sum of money, probably $4000 or $5000 a year out of what Kansas City now has left after paying the metropolitan taxes under the 8 per cent clause of the "peace agreement."

It is a fair guess than in two years there will be such a readjustment of the State's finances as will make necessary a much higher corporation tax for State purposes, as the pending constitutional amendment to separate the sources of revenue will, if adopted, throw the burden of the State's expenses on liquor taxes and corporation taxes chiefly. This bill is expected to raise $750,000 a year from corporation special taxes alone.

The Senate Committee on Judiciary spent most of yesterday working on the Cooper bill to provide means for removing from office derelict officials. The bill is commonly known as the quo-warranto bill, though in a strict sense it does not provide for quo-warranto proceedings. What the bill does is to give the Governor power to have the Attorney-General institute and prosecute suits for the removal of officers who refuse to do their duty and enforce the law.

Committee Favors Measure.

The proceedings are to be brought to a prompt hearing in the Circuit Court and be decided in one way or another in the shortest possible time. The committee made two minor amendments to the bill and agreed to recommend its passage, though Senators Fields and Cooper were ordered to make the amendments and submit the amended bill to the committee before sending it to the Senate.

The bill in its present form will have a wholesome influence with prosecuting attorneys and other officers who refuse to do their duty, and is as near like the quo-warranto bill first asked by Gov. Folk as would be consistent with one clause of the Missouri Constitution, which is unlike the Constitution of any other State in the Union. This is the only State that admits of only one way to remove negligent and dishonest officials—trial and conviction in the county in which the offense was committed.

BONILLA GIVES UP TO NICARAGUANS

President Zelaya Cables to New Orleans His Opponent Has Yielded.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.—According to a cable message received by the officials of the Fruit Dispatch Co. here, President Manuel Bonilla of Honduras has surrendered to the Nicaraguan forces. The cable message came from Managua, Nicaragua and was signed by President Jose S. Zelaya.

No details were given other than that Bonilla surrendered yesterday. Other advices received here yesterday, however, were to the effct that Bonilla had been "bottled up" vbgk in——re-p-k pala ever since he made his sensational flight from Choluteca.

"BLUE DEVILS"

Get Rid of Indigestion and Things Will Look Bright and Joyous

Even in the present era of prosperity and good times everything appears black to those people who are suffering wretchedly from some form of indigestion. Where digestion is quick, complete and easy there is a joyous and hopeful outlook, but indigestion causes depression.

The want of a safe, effective cure for sick headache, indigestion and stomach troubles was always felt until the prescription known as Mi-o-na stomach tablets was put up in popular form and proved its invariable success in the many forms of indigestion.

After a few days' use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets the headache, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, nervousness, sleeplessness, distress after eating—all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear and perfect digestion and a good skin will show that the vital machinery is once more running smoothly.

Mi-o-na is to be taken before each meal and it will stimulate the secretive and digestive juices and strengthen the whole of the digestive system so that the unpleasant full feeling will be absent and indigestion prevented.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50-cent box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents. Booth's Miona Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED GIRL WITNESSES.

Bride Wouldn't Have Men at Her Wedding.

Charles Albert Ralston and Miss Mollie Etta Coleman, both of St. Louis, would not permit Justice Thorton of Alton to marry them Thursday afternoon until he had obtained two feminine witnesses, the bride objecting to men.

The Justice hustled all of the loungers out, and, leaving the couple in his office, rushed to a department store and induced two young women to come and witness the ceremony. Misses Ella Bodde and Lizzie Sworts were the witnesses. The couple left for St. Louis on an interurban car after the ceremony.

Organizing for Hadley.

The first "Hadley for Governor" club in St. Louis has been organized in the Sixth Ward. At a meeting to be held at Concordia Hall, 1441 Chouteau avenue, April 15, a formal boom for Hadley for Governor will be launched. The club will hold meetings every two weeks until after the next State and municipal elections. "The club will be anti-Howe, anti-Stifel, anti-Niedringhaus, anti-advisory committee, anti-Kratz and anti-everything but Hadley and good government," said John B. Owen, president. "We are for Hadley for Governor good and strong, and will keep up the fight for him until he is nominated and elected."

MRS. LOADER HEARS FROM LOST CLOAK

Woman Telephones She Will Return Garment Taken at Odeon by Mistake.

LIVELY TALK FOLLOWS

Many Pertinent Questions Asked Over Wire Receive Spirited Replies.

Mrs. John W. Loader of the Lorraine Hotel, who lost a valuable black ulster at the Amphion concert at the Odeon last Tuesday evening, received a telephone message about 7:30 o'clock Friday morning that the speaker had the missing garment.

"Why didn't you telephone me at once and save all this publicity?" Mrs. Loader inquired when the woman at the other end of the line declined to disclose her identity.

"I don't care about the publicity, and you ought to be glad to get your coat back without asking too many questions, and I haven't got time to telephone," was the reply.

"You are telephoning now, aren't you?" Mrs. Loader says she retorted. "I was considering what humiliation you would feel about this. It doesn't matter to me, you know. But why didn't you try to rectify the mistake at once?" Mrs. Loader asked.

"It was your mistake. You left before I did and took my coat."

"Quite the contrary. You left before I did. Why didn't you report the matter at the theater?" Mrs. Loader questioned.

"Well, I didn't notice it until I got to the car."

"Why didn't you go back then?" the questioner persisted.

"Well, I had something else to do," Mrs. Loader says was the reply to that inquiry.

Fitted Her All Right.

"I guess it didn't fit you and you couldn't wear it." Mrs. Loader confessed she was getting aggravated.

"Oh, yes, it fit me all right, but I want my own coat. I need it."

"So do I need mine," from Mrs. Loader's end of the wire.

"Well, I will send my man over to your hotel with yours between 1 and 2 o'clock this afternoon to make the exchange."

"Very well. All I want is to recover my own garment and I can manage to forego further questions," said Mrs. Loader concluding the spirited conversation.

The identity of the woman who talked to Mrs. Loader was not revealed, but it is known she telephoned from a Grand avenue drug store.

Mrs. Loader says she is satisfied to recover her ulster and will gladly drop the matter.

FAY TEMPLETON TO RETIRE.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., April 12.—Fay Templeton announced today that she is going to retire from the stage in a month. This decision on the part of the comedienne will come as a surprise to many of her friends.

In deciding to give up professional life, she only carries out the decision which she made a little less than a year ago, when she became the bride of a wealthy resident of Pittsburg. She will devote herself, she says, to the hens, cows and sheep of the summer home in the neighborhood of Pittsburg, where her honeymoon was spent last summer.

Howard Mears Accused of Going Slumming.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 12. — The Rev. Howard Mears has been deposed from the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church by Coadjutor Bishop David H. Greer. He went slumming and got caught.

"Certainly we shall not leave New York," said his wife today. "Mr. Mears will go into the lecture field. He has done it before. He is well fitted for it. New York is the place for brains and Mr. Mears has plenty of them. "My husband has done nothing wrong," she continued. "His side of the case will be seen in time. He is preparing a written statement which will be made public in a day or two. He will not see anybody today."

SHE KEPT HIM AWAKE.

Man Says Wife Repeatedly Aroused Him With Whistle.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Henry D. Archer, a White Plains merchant, in an answer to his wife's divorce suit, declares that he has been the worst-treated husband in the world. Mrs. Archer accused her husband, among other things, of having turned her mother's picture to the wall.

"That may be so," says Archer, "but it's not a circumstance to what she has done. She has driven me almost insane by keeping me awake at night. As soon as I get to sleep she blows a tin whistle and keeps at it until I wake up. The excuse she gives is that I have been snoring and she wants to break me of the habit."

Archer says this is not his only defense to his wife's action, but he believes it is sufficient to convince any jury that he is the wronged party.

THE SECRET OF INSISTING.

The Affiliated Business Men's Association has a difficult task before it when it undertakes to bring the street car service of St. Louis in line with law, ordinance and public convenience.

The difficulty, however, presents no reason for despairing of success at the outset or at any subsequent stage of the attempt. Success is not only possible, but under proper conditions certain, if not at first, then finally.

The proper conditions are certain to be created finally by calmly deliberate but absolutely unfaltering insistence that when a thing is not right it must be made right.

We have already had set for this attempt a notable example of the spirit which means success in proper insistence. The calmness, the affability, the temperate self-control and dignity with which the local managers of the United Railway car lines, when a thing is wrong, insist that it ought to stay wrong until they hear from Mr. John I. Beggs, or someone else somewhere outside of St. Louis, shows what insistence means in results when it is operating in the wrong way up to its highest possibilities.

When we learn to insist that way that the right thing ought to be done in the right way, then nothing is to be despaired of and nothing is impossible.

The opportunity to conciliate Mr. Conried next week is worth a word. Mr. Conried thought, perhaps with reason, that St. Louis was not as appreciative of his Metropolitan opera troupe as it should have been. Opera troupes such as the Metropolitan are projected in our direction infrequently and at great financial risk, and it is entirely justifiable in Mr. Conried to expect that they will not find us wanting in love of music or willingness to appreciate that such music as he offers comes high or not at all. With Signor Caruso getting $84,000 for his season's work, Mme. Sembrich totaling $100,000, with opera and concerts, and the rest of the world's great voices reaping in proportion as they rank in popular favor, it is sometimes a little difficult to understand what the impresario gets out of it except a kick. Mr. Conried is offering us next week a great treat, and appreciation of it is one of the things making for metropolitanism.

THE IDEAL HUSBAND.

If there is anything in the higher ideal of matrimony for the New Woman of the twenty-first century, a considerable volume of sworn testimony just made a matter of court record, shows that this ideal twenty-first century husband not only arrived in St. Louis, but actually realized himself for several years prior to the year 1907.

When, in the year 1907, he is publicly demonstrated as a failure, he has still behind him the record of success in cooking, in house cleaning, in taking care of the children and in almost everything else which could be expected of the ideal husband in the year 2007. Why is it, then, that, in the year 1907, he is still a failure from the standpoint of the ideal in the divorce courts?

It may take an entire century to find the answer. All our present light leaves much that is still obscure. It appears, however, that he failed to wear a clean shirt and necktie while cooking, that though he did the rest of the housework, he refused to do the scrubbing and finally that he failed to support the family in addition to doing the housework.

Perhaps it is at this last point that even in the year 2007, the ideal New Woman with the ideal New Husband may find the ideal and the real hopelessly dislocated at what we long for as the point of their permanent attachment. Perhaps there is no such thing as permanent attachment possible unless the ideal and the real can be prevented from coming together "wrong end foremost."

FACTS AND GRAMMAR.

The traveler from the East who has spent several days in St. Louis and made what he is sure is a discovery about us, showed his sense of fitness not only by telling us about it, but by telling it through the Post-Dispatch as the surest means of making it public to the full extent of the possibilities of publicity.

Having thus acquired the information that we are "impolite" in St. Louis, it would not be courteous to a guest of the city, gracious enough to come without waiting for the stiff formality of an invitation, to question that he has observed certain facts of interest and importance which we are under obligations to him for attempting to divulge.

Observing important facts, however, is one thing. Defining them in exact and scientific terms is quite another thing. It is an error of definition to say that we are "impolite" when that statement means with scientific exactness that we do not act "like city people." We are city people by a majority of at least half a million, and we act habitually like city people. We are certainly "citified" and to that extent "polite;" and beyond this, we are "metropolitan" and just about as "cosmopolitan" as any people can get to be by getting together in one advantageous locality from all or nearly all the other cities and countries of the earth.

But although we are as polite as living in a city can make any people on earth, there are times when we can be inconsiderate, certainly in our relations with each other and perhaps in our relations with strangers.

Perhaps our Eastern guest has discovered this. Probably he has. We may get so accustomed to it ourselves that except in the greatest and gravest emergencies there does not seem to be anything appalling about it.

If, however, we are suddenly called to New York in such a way that we are obliged to hurry or try to hurry against a Greater New York crowd that is rushing towards Wall street from the Brooklyn Bridge approaches, we may discover that people in Greater New York may be inconsiderate to an extent that seems appalling from the very beginning. Perhaps we may also think them impolite to the same extent. But in that we may be guilty of bad grammar in the sense in which grammar consists of "etymology" and "orthoepy" as well as "syntax and prosody."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

The following excerpt from the cablegram, sent to the Post-Dispatch staff by Joseph Pulitzer and read at the dinner in honor of Mr. Pulitzer's sixtieth birthday, embodies the platform of the Post-Dispatch:

My grateful thanks are also due to the people of St. Louis for their generous approval of the principles and character of the paper. I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for Progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

A TRIAL SCANDAL.

Harry K. Thaw killed Stanford White June 25, 1906, or exactly nine months and seventeen days ago.

The case was not brought up for trial until Jan. 23, 1907, seven months, lacking two days, after the murder was committed.

Twe weeks were spent in drawing a jury, but the trial itself has been dragging along for 64 days, although not a single essential fact relative to the actual killing of White by Traw was in dispute and there was no circumstantial evidence to complicate the case.

Delays in the selection of a jury are often unavoidable, especially in a case of such overwhelming notoriety, in which nearly every newspaper reader has preconceived notions of the guilt or innocence of the accused. But with a jury selected, 10 days should have been ample time to try the case. When the Solicitor's Journal of London describes the trial as "a scandal of the first magnitude and a terrible blot upon the legal procedure of the United States," it errs, if it errs at all, upon the side of conservative criticism.

The blame for this scandal must be divided largely between Mr. Jerome and Mr. Delmas, who have made the trial a spectacular duel, in which the vice, the filth and the tawdry theatricalism of the tenderloin, joined to the absurdities of so-called expert testimony, seem to have been paraded before the public less to serve the ends of justice than to serve the ends of personal vanity and personal ambition.

The trial of Rayner for the murder of Whiteley in London, a case which resembled this in some of its aspects, took half as many hours as the Thaw trial has taken weeks. Rayner was arrested, tried and convicted in less than two months from the day of the murder, while the trial itself consumed only five hours. But except for the matter of appeals, there is no reason why the administration of justice in this country could not be quite as expeditious as the administration of justice in England. We know that it can, for the trial of President McKinley's murderer proved it. There was a case which was conducted speedily, decently and with dignity.

THE ARCHEOLOGICAL DRAMA.

It is very interesting to look the Sphinx in the face in "Caesar and Cleopatra." It is diverting to know that the sling with which David is slaying Goliath in "The Shepherd King" is the unchanged and genuine weapon, personally acquired by the actor from just such a shepherd as David was on those same hills where David minded his flocks.

A great week on the local stage for the archeologists! Too seldom are they thrown a crumb. Not since we last had "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," and that unhappy young woman wept in the shadow of Stonehenge, has the theater had any possible appeal to that profound but enthusiastic local body which keeps the grass green on Cahokia Mound, chases the lizards out of the ancient flint quarries along the Meramec and tracks primitive man to his lair in Uhrig's Cave.

And it is paint stones to pogamoggans that not one of them went.

THE SECRET OF IT.

The world is indebted to N. O. Nelson of St. Louis for several things, but more especially for his discovery that you can go where you please in the poorest and most crowded quarters of a great American city and sleep in them, all night, every night for months, with safety and, if you please, with unlocked doors.

Mr. Nelson has shown that you can do this easily, if you like, even though a millionaire.

Perhaps he is the first millionaire who ever discovered it and in its way it is a far-reaching discovery.

But other people, thousands of them, knew it before. Common consideration for the feelings of all sorts of other people, common and uncommon, is the secret of it. It is very simple. It ought not to be very hard for anyone.

DIAGNOSIS.

I have that tired feeling
Anon upon me stealing,
And there is no concealing
My weariness, alas!
I have no disposition
To work, and my ambition
Is sadly in omission—
I need some sassafras.

I need that magic potion
To set my wheels in motion
And recreate the notion
That I must root or die.
I have no predilection
At all in that direction,
Which is a sad affection
For one so poor as I.

I seem to have a stealthy
Illusion I am wealthy,
Which vision isn't healthy
For one of my degree.
The primrose path of leisure
And all its idle pleasure,
Is not in any measure,
Apparently, for me.

For me 'tis ever doing
And ever fast pursuing
My daily bread and wooing
The shy, elusive Muse.
When I shall cease to woo her,
And cease to be a doer,
Some other man will shoo her
Away and fill my shoes.

I have that dread sensation,
Suspended animation,
And need divine affiation
From Bachus, in a glass.
I need no great physician
To tell me my condition—
It's want-to-go-a-fishin',
And the answer's Sassafras.

AFTER YOU.

AN OFFER.

There is a mystery out in Cabanne. A half dozen red lights have disappeared from a construction work where they were hung out to give warning of obstructions in the streets. Their disappearance has been officially attributed to thieves, and a general order has been promulgated to look out for a man with six lanterns.

This is not, however, the lay theory in Cabanne, which inclines to the belief that some member of the community, returning from a banquet, probably gathered the lanterns and took them home with him. Being more or less lit up when he passed the partly built apartment where the lanterns were exhibited, it would have been the most natural thing in the world for him to have appreciated their possibilities in the matter of his further illumination. A man in that peculiarly ambitious state attaches even more importance to his personal effulgence that he does to his home address, and if there were more than six red lights exhibited by the contractor, the wonder is that any were left. But to keep still about it and hide the lanterns somewhere about the house is adding wrong to a little innocent mischief. The contractor is entitled to some sort of reparation, and we trust that if the gentleman who had the adventure sees this, he will find no offense in our suggestion that $6 left with us would find its way to the contractor anonymously.

The country has felt for some time that somebody connected with the Thaw case ought to go to prison as a sort of vicarious punishment for what the people have suffered. We are not particular whether it is Thaw, one of his lawyers or perhaps one of the alienists. Life for the originator of the bran storm theory would appease the country.

LIFE IS A BIG LAUGH.

Written for the Post Dispatch

BY GEORGE M. COHAN.

EVERY time you hand out a laugh you make somebody happy. Any time you are handed a laugh you're happy.

The hard luck fellow with the doleful tale is the man you try to dodge; the good-news man with the joyful story is the one you are always glad to meet.

Smile when you approach, and laugh when you leave.

If you must tell a man some sad news, don spring it on him all at once.

Surround seriousness with comedy; start in by saying something funny, and when he begins to giggle, pull the terrible thing you've got to say, and make a quick switch again to the comedy and leave him laughing.

I want to tell you something right now, and just jot this down in your memo book: The man with the laugh is the popular man, you can bet all you've got on that; the popular man is the prosperous man, and I guess that's a pretty safe wager too.

This is a great big country. Barrels of money in the United States, and wise men laugh themselves into a bank roll.

YOU want to laugh, I want to laugh, we ALL want to laugh.

If you are a married man, hand your wife as many laughs as possible; that will make her love you all the more. If you have any children, say and do things to make them laugh, and they'll grow up and be happy men and women.

Hand your employer as many laughs as you can, and your job is safe, and it will save you thinking up stuff to hand your landlady laughs in order to hang onto the hall room you've laughed your way into.

Every time you make the bartender laugh you get the kind the boss drinks.

Make the waiter laugh and he serves you twice as well.

Always make your tailor laugh, especially when you owe him money.

When you go to the theater, go there to laugh: If you laugh, the fellow next to you laughs; if he laughs, the fellow next to him laughs, and, as laughter is contagious, the first thing you know the whole house is laughing, the actors are working twice as hard, you get three times as much for your money and everybody is satisfied.

Never complain about the weather; always say, "Wasn't it a splendid blizzard?" instead of, "Wasn't it an awful storm?"

Never ask a man in the middle of August if it is hot enough for him, because some day some one's going to say "No;" then what are you going to say?

Never find fault with the street-car conductor, and don't grumble because you have to stand up for fifteen or twenty blocks; just take your medicine with a smile, grab on to a strap, say something funny, get everybody in the car laughing, turn it into a picnic party, and the first thing you know you are home, and you won't mind the trip at all.

THE LADIES IN EPIGRAM.

IF Cleopatra's nose had been shorter the face of the world would have been changed.—Pascal.

Women are undecipherable; whether they laugh or cry one's explanation is never right.—Th. Bentzon.

What men seek in women is the opposite of themselves.—Ernest Renan.

Their glory is to be least spoken of among men, whether for praise or blame.—Pericles.

Men and women never agree as to the merits of another woman.—La Bruyere.

Natural beauty is not everything; there is an art in being pretty.—Ludovic Halevy.

A person in whom the perfections of both mind and body are found together alone deserves in my judgment the praise of perfect beauty.—Polystratus.

A woman's face ought to be like an April day—susceptible of change and variety.—Lord Byron.

Laughter is the test of beauty; women that it embellishes are of the divine race.—Rougon.

The symbol of woman in general is that of the Apocalypse, on the forehead of which was written "Mystery."—Diderot.

Is there anyone with whom you converse less than with your wife?—Xenophon.

AN EQUINE MYSTERY

DURING the last seven years the number of horses in the country has increased about 30 per cent, from 15,000,000 to 23,000,000, but value has increased about 112 per cent. The average price on the farm in 1900 is stated at $44.50. In 1907 it is $94.50—the highest price of which there is an official record. Instead of the automobile putting the horse out of business we are further from the horseless age than ever. Automobiles came along just in time to prevent a horse famine. They merely change to some extent his "sphere of influence."

"THERE'S NOTHING LIKE LEATHER."

ACCORDING to a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Statistics the leather industry contributed $150,000,000 to the foreign commerce of the United States in 1906, against $55,000,000 in 1896.

A Spiritual Suggestion for Today

LET us excitable people try the efficacy of the cross applied to our hearts by love. I will not despair of its steadying and calming the unquietest heart among us.

Coliseum Fund.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why do not the wealthy citizens of St. Louis come forward and finish the subscription to our Coliseum? Only a few dollars more are needed. Do not our husbands and fathers want us to have a place to show our plumage?

HORSE-SHOW LOVER.

Impolite St. Louisans.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I cannot refrain from agreeing with the sentiment of M. in the article headed "St. Louisans Impolite," appearing in last evening's paper, although I was reared in St. Louis. I am loyal to it and proud of its progress. It is to be regretted, however, that such accusations as M. makes cannot be denied by people who have time to be civil and courteous and expect such treatment from others. Especially is this impoliteness and incivility shown in our large stores, where the public have the right at least to expect civility, if not courtesy. While it is true that people serving the public often have unreasonable persons to deal with, yet this does not justify them in cultivating an insolent manner and inflicting it on all. People engaging in work where they serve the public who are not by nature civil and courteous should be made so by discipline governed by fines or loss of position.

Defense of Spiritualism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Rev. Josephus Stephan of your city, in a recent sermon, apparently went out of his way to attack the religion of Spiritualism. People of equal mental attainments differ widely in their opinions, yet are perfectly honest and sincere in all they say. Rev. Mr. Stephan's remarks would indicate that he has never read any of the literature of Spiritualism. Until he has done so, he has no right to call its doctrines immoral, and its people ignorant. Those adjectives could be applied with truth in reverse order, if he has spoken without knowing his premises. I doubt if he has ever read an unexpurgated biography of John Wesley. If he has, then he is guilty of calling the doctrines of the "Saint of Epworth" immoral, for the Wesley brothers and the eloquent Whitefield were firm believers in Spiritualism. If Rev. Mr. Stephan will read "The Life of John Wesley" (by Daviess, I think), published in 1818 by the Methodist Book Concern, Paternoster Row, London, England, he will know something about Spiritualism which he does not know today. Spiritualism condemns immorality and crimes of all kinds. It declares that there is no forgiveness for sin, and brings every human being to the judgment bar to receive his just deserts. The law of consequences is God's supreme edict to His children, and He holds every living being to a strict account under it. If Rev. Mr. Stephan does not know that these are the fundamentals of Spiritualism, that it is a religious system with the loftiest of moral principles behind it, he should not assay to speak concerning it. "No man can teach that which he does not know." No man has any right, moral or legal, to condemn the religious beliefs of his fellows until he has tested them to see if they be of God.

HARRISON D. BARRETT,
President National Spiritualists' Association.

Shortage of Teachers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The people of St. Louis who foot the bills wonder why St. Louis, with its expensive teachers' college, cannot supply its own teachers, but must send to the back of beyond or some other neck of the woods for 40 per cent of its yearly supply. Mr. Soldan gives every reason but the real one, namely, that every year a certain percentage of the teachers marry, and these trained, experienced teachers are forced out of the schools by an absurd, arbitrary, illogical and, many good lawyers say, an unconstitutional rule made by the old and discredited board. This rule affects not only those who are teachers, but those who wish to become teachers.

COMMON SENSE.

Street Cleaners' Wages.

Washington, D. C., April 11, 1907.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Knowing that you have the people's welfare at heart, would like to call your attention to the street cleaner. I have in mind one who told me he had four weeks' wages coming and says he may have to wait a few weeks more until he is paid. As a general thing a street cleaner is poor and needs the money. How can a poor man wait four weeks and probably longer for his wages? If they could be paid every two weeks it would help them a great deal.

THE VOICE IS THE INDEX OF THE MIND

Elbert Hubbard in Lippincott's.

CULTIVATE a mild, gentle, and sympathetic voice.

And the way to secure a mild, gentle, and sympathetic voice is to be mild, gentle, and sympathetic.

The voice is the index of the soul.

Children do not pay much attention to your words—they judge of your intents by your voice.

Your voice reassures. "My sheep know my voice."

We judge one another more by voice than language, for voice colors speech, and if your voice does not corroborate your words, doubt will follow.

We are won or repelled by a voice. Your dog does not obey your words; he does, however, read your intents in your voice.

The best way to cultivate a voice is not to think about it.

Actions become regal only when they are unconscious, and the voice that convinces, that holds us captive, that leads and lures us on, is used by its owner unconsciously.

Fix your mind on the thought, and the voice will follow. If you fear you will not be understood, you are losing the thought—it is slipping away from you—and you are thinking of the voice. Then your voice rises to a screech, subsides into a purr, or bellows like the vagrant winds. Anxiety and intent are shown, and your case is lost. If the voice is allowed to come naturally, easily, gently, it will take on every tint and emotion of the mind.

And so, to get back to the place of beginning, the advice is this: The best way to cultivate the voice is not to cultivate it. The voice is the sounding-board of the soul. God made it right. If your soul is filled with truth, your voice will vibrate with love, echo with sympathy, and fill your hearers with the desire to do, to be, and to become.

Your desire will be theirs.

By their voices ye shall know them.

Peace—be still! Feel that, and then say it, and your voice shall be a word of command that even the elements will obey.

M.—Some reader may give you the names of our great men who professed Christ in their youth, with their age at time of profession. We haven't the record.

ANNIE.—When a young man sighs so much while with his sweetheart he may be thinking of the enormous cost of housekeeping as Americans like to keep house.

McM.—"Friends invited" to funeral means that they are to go to the house, but not that carriages will be provided for all who come. "Private" means "interment private."

G. A. P.—Not to be round-shouldered, you must persistently sit and stand and walk erect and lie straight while sleeping. Resolve not to bend to the typewriter or the dinner table.

M.—Post-Dispatch was born Dec. 10, 1878. Its predecessors were the Dispatch, the Post, the Union, the News, the New Era, the Mirror, the Gazette. The latter was born July 3, 1838.

C. T. M.—To thicken and strengthen eyelashes and correct their tendency to fall, apply with a fine sable brush an ointment made of sulphate of quinine, 5 grains; sweet almond oil, 1 ounce.

ROBERT.—Unless a physician has declared your heart trouble serious, think no more of it; and don't worry about your height and weight. Live right, have good habits and all will be well with you.

G.—Hotel, inn and boarding-house keepers have a lien upon the baggage and other valuables of guests or boarders, and upon their wages. We do not know whether a court would apply this law to a rooming house.

A. B. C.—Your question is indefinite; if you mean the capital necessary to individually engage in the business, none whatever. If brokerage business is contemplated, law requires that you take out a broker's license.

E. H.—Verbal (nuncupative) wills are good in most states, but in nearly all those where valid are void when amount exceeds a certain sum, usually small. In Missouri the amount must not exceed $200. Cannot advise you as to foreign countries.

FISHERMAN.—Dough bait: Pour hot water on wheat flour, knead to consistency of dough, add enough molasses to make dough slightly sweet; put in little pieces of cotton to strengthen dough and keep it from crumbing and washing from hook when it hardens. Balls should be size of marbles.

LOVE.—No newspaper is wise enough to give advice to a couple who do not have the same opinion of their boy. Possibly if you will be patient time will open a way. Thousands of people have domestic troubles and are bearing them. Jarr and Rangle families are common. Forget to worry. Make the best of bad conditions.

O.—To prevent hay asthma, change climate. Treatment: General health should receive close attention. Many patients require tonic. Prescription: Liq. potass. arsenit, 1 dram, syr. hypophos. q. s., oil, 4 oz. Diet, chiefly fruit and vegetables; animal food, coffee and tea interdicted. All the avenues of excretion should be maintained in their normal condition.

APPRECIATE.—The fact that you are seven years older than your husband is of no consequence. Stop thinking of his folly and take care of yourself. Do what is right and be firm in doing it. Cease making sacrifices; use comon sense. Your mind needs discipline. Many another woman has married a fool. Never lose a minute's sleep about anyone who is so foolish.

THE JARR FAMILY

Eavesdropping for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCardell.

"I MIGHT have known that you'd forget that tonight we were going over to Mrs. Sope's reception!" was Mrs. Jarr's greeting to her lord.

"I had other things to think of, and so, important as it was, it slipped my mind," said Mr. Jarr jocosely.

"I know you don't care," said Mrs. Jarr, "but how do you expect me to keep in with nice people if you won't even go with me to respectable gatherings?" And she laid much emphasis on the word "respectabe."

Mr. Jarr flinched not. He was used to it. "Well," he said, "why didn't you tell me about it when I telephoned you I'd be a little late this evening?"

"I didn't think of it," said Mrs. Jarr. "With everything in the house on my mind and to look after, I think you might have remembered it. It isn't often I get anywhere, goodness knows!"

"What time does it take place?" asked Mr. Jarr. "About 8 o'clock, eh? Well, it's just 8 now. We can dress and hurry over. Those things are always late."

It was just a little short of 9, and the Jarrs were the first guests to arrive. However, the guests came pouring in and by 9:30 the social orgie was in full swing.

"Sssh!" said Mrs. Jarr warningly to her husband and his friend Rangle, who were discussing what ought to be done with Harriman, "Mr. Pinkley is going to recite."

Whereupon a doll-like little man arose, smoothed his hair with his dainty white gloves and said:

"I WILL NOW RECITE SPARTACUS' ADDRESS TO THE GLADIATORS!"

"Cheese! cheese! Pipe the ladylike person!" whispered Mr. Rangle, who was vulgarly given to slang.

"Sssh!" said Mrs. Jarr.

Mr. Pinkley got away with his recitation and then sang, for he was versatile as well as cute.

"LET ME LIKE A SOLDIER FALL!"

A very scrawny young woman, after much coaxing on the part of hostess and accomplices, acceded to the request that she sing something from "La Sonnambula."

By this time Mr. Jarr and Mr. Rangle had tiptoed over to a bowl of pink liquid, in which floated a lump of ice, some lemon and cucumber peels, and which people of strident imagination alluded to as "punch."

But as by this time a greasy-looking person of foreign aspect, whose brow was not only high, but bumpy, was at the piano committing music—fugues by Bach and an opus or something of that kind by an individual some present alluded to as Ko-pan, others as Sho-pan and still others as Chop-pin and yet others as Cho-pah-h-h-h! (the last syllable coming out like a cork from a bottle). Mr. Jarr murmured "Better death!" and ladled out some more of the punch.

A soggy mass of fruit, cherries, sliced bananas and oranges lay at the bottom of the bowl.

"Gimme some of the vegetables to take the taste out of my mouth!" said Rangle, "and what time can we duck from this joint?"

"Eef it pleeas, shentlemen, the interruption he must not come, else cannot I interpretate ze symphonies of ze mastaire!" protested the pianist, as he ceased playing in the middle of the highbrow music.

All eyes were turned on Mr. Jarr and his friend.

Finally there was a chance to escape. On the way home Mrs. Jarr broke her frozen silence with a sobbing cry. "Oh, to think!" she cried, "that you should disgrace me so! We'll never be invited there again!"

"No such good luck!" said Mr. Jarr. "And as long as you live, Clara Jarr, don't you ever drag me among such a bunch of dubs again!"

"Well, it was certainly a shoddy affair," said Mrs. Jarr. "The salad was made from canned lobster and the chicken was veal!"

BETTY VINCENT'S ADVICE to LOVERS

HOW TO WIN HIM.

"HOW can I show my love?" asks a girl reader. She does not seem to think that until a young man has shown unmistakable interest in a girl it is a great mistake for her to display affection for him. Show him that you like him—yes. Let him see that his conversation interests you. Encourage him to talk about himself, his interests and his amusements. Make him comfortable when he calls. Ask him to dinner Sunday if you keep house. Don't let all the attentions come from him. Make some return for them. If he is accustomed to smoking after dinner, let him smoke. If he has on new clothes or a new hat or a pretty tie, notice them and express your admiration. Don't talk him to death. One remark that he makes to you does more to win him than 10 you make to him. But don't be a conversational doormat. If your opinion differs from his, don't pretend that it does not. Be gracious always, but never abject. And above all, don't show you love him before you feel he loves you.

Can't Wait for Introduction.

Dear Betty:

I AM a young girl of 17 and still go to school. A boy about the same age goes to the same school. I have fallen deeply in love with him, although he seems indifferent in the matter. I do not know this boy, although I have asked several people to introduce me to him, but they will not do it. I have heard that this boy wanted an introduction to me and no one will introduce him to me. I sincerely hope that you will not tell me to wait for an introduction, as that is impossible.
S. C. H.

As you go to the same school, you might find some pretext to ask him a question about school matters. That is all I can suggest. Such infatuations are very silly.

His Love Grew Cold.

Dear Betty.

I HAVE know a young man ever since I was 8 years old, and we were always regarded by the rest of the boys and girls we went with as sweethearts. I moved away from that neighborhood and we generally communicated by writing. I have written him a letter and he has failed to answer. Once I called him up on the 'phone, and when asked if he knew who it was he said yes and called me by another girl's name. Is this not sufficient proof that he has put me aside and grown cold towards me?
COLLEGE GIRL.

It looks as if the young man were indeed faithless. Do not pursue him further. Let him think you are interested in some one else and his love may return to you.

AT LAST.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

"Well," said Charon to the spirit of the man who had all his life lived in a great city, "you seem to be rather enjoying your ride."

"I am," the spirit answered, leaning back in his seat and carelessly putting his feet upon the gunwale. "This is one of the most pleasant experiences I have ever had."

"As a rule," replied the shadowy oarsman, "my passengers are disposed to be gloomy. It is seldom that one of them has a cheerful word to say to me. Might I, without seeming to be impertinent, ask why you find it so pleasant to make this trip? Of course you have no means of knowing what may await you on the other side. No spirit is ever permitted to learn that before the shore is reached. For that reason my passengers are generally filled with apprehension. I don't believe I ever took another across who was as cheerful as you seem to be."

"I should think many of them would be just as cheerful as I am. Certainly they would be if they were philosophical enough to appreciate a good thing when they had it."

"Do you regard this as a good thing?"

"Sure. They can't beat it. I've at last got aboard something in which I don't have to hang to a strap."

"There is as much water in railway stocks as ever," remarked the financier.

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Stax, "but it's a little harder to convince the small investors that the water's fine and they ought to come in."

Locating Himself.

From the Denver Post.

The telephone girl in a Denver hotel answered a quer call over the house exchange yesterday morning about 11 o'clock. When she "plugged in" a man's voice said:

"Hello! Is this the So and So hotel?"

"I should say not," said the girl. "This is the Such and Such hotel."

"Oh, all right; much obliged," said the voice. "Just woke up an' didn't know where I was. Send me up a bromo seltzer, please."

This is the season of the year when a man goes out to hunt mushrooms, and the undertaker hears of it, put his measuring string in his vest pocket and takes a seat near the telephone.

GOLD IN CALIFORNIA.

GOLD was discovered in California in January 19, 1848 and it was by accident, as most things of that kind are. One John W. Marshall was building a mill for himself and Sutter, on the south fork of the American River, 54 miles east of Sutter's Fort. It was intended that the mill should supply the ranches and the settlements with pine lumber.

On the morning of January 19, Marshall picked up from the race of the mill a small piece of yellow metal, weighing about seventeen grains. It was heavier than silver, was malleable, and in every respect resembled gold. The men said it was not gold, but Marshall tested it with nitric acid and found that it was. He found pieces like it in all the surrounding gulches, wherever he dug for it. The news of the discovery spread, but no report of it was published until April, when Sutter's mill became the center of attraction. The name of the place was soon changed to Coloma, or Colluma, from a tribe of Indians living in the neighborhood, and prospectors who gathered there soon scattered in every direction. By June the discovery had extended to all the forks of the American River. This was the beginning of the rush to that region.

We suppose that when a dog gets home from downtown and his owner takes his muzzle off he must feel as comfortable as a woman feels when she gets her corset off at night.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Is acknowledged to be the most successful remedy in the country for those painful ailments peculiar to women.

For more than 30 years it has been curing Female Complaints, such as Hot Flashes, Spinal Weakness, Backache, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life.

Records show that it has cured more cases of Female Ills than any other one remedy known.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage of development. Pain, weight and headache are relieved and permanently cured by its use.

It corrects Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility; also, Dizziness, Faintness, Extreme Lassitude, "Don't care and want to be left alone" feeling, Irritability, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Flatulency, Melancholia or the "Blues." These are sure indications of weakness or some organic derangement.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a most excellent remedy.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of disorders are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham, in advising. Thus she is well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Her advice is free and always helpful.

Gardening Joys and Woes.

From the Oil City Blizzard.

NOW the amateur gardener makes his plans and specifications, and in his mind's eye is mirrored a beautiful picture which makes a noise like a seed catalog. The melons are large and juicy, the tomatoes smooth and crimson, the cucumbers the genuine "long green." This is the expectation. The realization will come along about the steenth day of next July, when the weather is too warm for gardening, when the ground is baked like clay tiling, with cracks and seams making mute appeals for moisture; when the tomato vines wither and the destructive little stripe-backed bugs dance in ghoulish glee as they chew up the cucumber vines and make the patch look like as if it had been in the path of a prairie fire.

Another Kentucky Horror.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"Colonel Allgore seems to be taking quite a shine to the rich widow of a pickle manufacturer."

"No; she's taking a shine to him. He told me the other day, with a wry face, that she was his sour mash."

Accommodating.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Hail, Spring!" shouted they.

"Why, certainly," responded Spring. "I shall also be pleased to rain, snow, storm, freeze, thaw and drizzle."

And she did so.

WOULDN'T LET HIM GO WITH HER TO SHOWS

Housekeeper Hammond Says His Wife Objected to Paying His Way.

QUIT JOB FOR HOME WORK

Witnesses Attest His Ability at Housework, and Butter and Pickle Making.

Thomas Lewis Hammond, housekeeper to his wife, Mrs. Rosa Lee Hammond, business woman, was a good deal of a drudge, according to his way of telling about it to Judge Withrow, in whose court he is resisting Mrs. Hammond's suit for divorce and seeking one from her. While he toiled at home she went to places of amusement and didn't take him because she would have to pay his way.

When Judge Hezel, Hammond's attorney, asked him about his wife going to theaters, Attorney Ford, for Mrs. Hammond, objected. Judge Withrow remarked that a woman had a right to go to the theater if she wanted to. "Especially if it's with her own money," added Mr .Ford.

"Did you ever go with her?" asked Judge Hezel.

"No sir. Once she said she'd like to go to the theater if she had somebody to go with her. I told her I would go with her. She said she didn't want me to go because she would have to pay my way."

On cross-examination Mr. Ford asked: "When Mrs. Hammond went to places of amusement she took you with her, didn't she?"

"Hardly ever."

"She took you along when she went driving, didn't she?"

"Sometimes, when we lived in Jefferson City."

"And when she went to visit relatives?"

"Yes, when it didn't cost anything to take me."

Quit Job to Do Housework.

Hammond said he first began helping about the house when his wife was running a boarding house in Jefferson City. At the beginning he only carried the water and did odd jobs about the house. When he came home one night from his work his wife asked him to give up his job and help her and he did so. After that he did the general housework and the cooking and attended to the children.

He also did the pressing an shrinking for her dresscutting academy.

"Did your wife give you any of the money earned by your joint labors?" he was asked.

"No, sir, only my board."

"Did your wife ever show any displeasure with your cooking?"

"Sometimes she would throw a spoon out of a cooking dish or something like that. When she did that I supposed she was displeased."

When he accidentally scorched the facing of a coat he was pressing his wife told him it was time for him to pack his trunk and go.

At the suggestion of Judge Hezel he told about his wife once distrusting his ability to send an express money order. "She wanted to know," he said, "whether I could get an express money order and put it into an envelope and send it. I had done it many times and knew that I could do it, but I told her that if she had any doubts about it I would get the express order and bring it home and she could put in into the envelope and send it herself. I did so."

She accused him of extravagance when the gas bill was high one month and said she would have to watch him and see that he kept the gas turned low.

Asked how he had treated his wife he said: "Always in a gentlemanly manner."

Cannot Feel the Same Now.

"Do you still love your wife?" asked Judge Withrow abruptly. Hammond hesitated and then said: "Not under the circumstances." He explained that he could not feel the same toward her after, as he believed she had alienated the affections of the children from him. He said he loved the children dearly. "I raised them from infancy," he added.

Mrs. H. W. Clark of Jefferson City compared Hammond to an apple that had been through a cider mill. Before she testified she asked Judge Withrow to settle a question of honor for her. "If a person confided in you," she said, "and asked you to tell no one, would you consider the Judge and the lawyers here as no one?"

"Yes, yes, that's the best way," said the Judge quickly.

She said Mrs. Hammond had become offended once at Jefferson City because the Sunday school superintendent did not pay her as much attention as she thought she was entitled to and she had refused to attend any more.

She pronounced butter made by Mr. Hammond with his own hands as "extra good" and added: "I am an authority on butter and I say that no better butter was ever made than was made by Thomas Hammond."

Comparison of Apples.

She told also of seeing Mr. Hammand plowing in the fields, but hastened to explain: "That was the Tom Hammond of 20 years ago. To compare him with the Tom Hammond of now would be the same as comparing a well-shaped apple with one that had been through a cider mill."

She said Mrs. Hammond had told her after she married Hammond that she was disappointed in him because he did not have as much will power as she had expected and was inclined to be womanish. Mrs. Hammond also expressed the wish that her husband's sister would take him and take care of him. The witness said that Hammond was generally called "Uncle Tom." "It was a pet name," she said. "Everybody loved Uncle Tom."

Amelia H. Vineyard, niece of Hammond, told of buying a hat, two suits of underwear and a pair of shoes for Hammond when she and her mother were visiting the Hammonds in 1906. "We were going away to California," she said, "and we wanted to be sure that he would be comfortable during the winter." She said she had not bought anything for Mrs. Hammond because she seemed to have everything that she needed. "Uncle Tom was the only one that needed anything."

While they were on that visit her Uncle Tom made a jar of the finest pickles she ever tasted.

Her uncle always got up early and did the sweeping and dusting, looked after the children and got breakfast, and Mrs. Hammond made her appearance first at the breakfast table.

Mrs. W. C. Gibson of Milwaukee, sister of Mr. Hammond, told about Mrs. Hammond, when the Hammonds were staying at her house, going about all day Sunday in a calico wrapper and soiled white slippers and disordered hair and making an elaborate toilette to help entertain a gentleman friend of the family who called in the evening. She said the costume was more elaborate than was necessary, but was not full dress.

Rev. J. T. M. Johnston told of an ineffectual attempt to reconcile the couple.

Want to Amend Cross Bill.

At the opening of court Friday Judge Hezel, representing Mr. Hammond, asked leave to amend his cross-bill, so as to allege what he called improprieties on the part of Mrs. Hammond. The other side objected to the admission of the amendment at this stage of the proceedings and the case was laid over until afternoon to present authorities on the issue raised.

The defense is trying to procure admission of depositions ruled out on the cross-bill as it stands for the reason that in a divorce case nothing can be proved that is not pleaded. Therefore, the defendant desires to use parts of the depositions through amending the cross-bill.

Judge Hezel took pains to say that he did not want to allege any grave improprieties on Mrs. Hammond's part, but simply desired to show that in some instances she acted so as to show lack of regard for her husband.

HE IS PROMOTER OF THE WATER WAGON TRUST

CLAUDE H. WETMORE

THE formal organization of the Conolidated Soda and Mineral Water Co., sometimes referred to as "the water wagon trust," was effected Thursday at the offices of the promoter, C. H. Wetmore, in the Roe Building. At Thursday's meeting committees were appointed to prepare by-laws and to arrange to take over the various constituent plants. The officers elected are: President, Frederick W. Meyer, president Meyer-Meinhardt Bottling Co.; vice-president and general manager, Louis Schaefer of Louis Schaefer Soda Co.; second vice-president and assistant general manager, H. A. Dupieche, president J. M. Dupieche Soda Water Co.; treasurer, John T. Nolde, president Chippewa Bank; secretary, Charles A. Cale, vice-president Balmer & Weber Music House Publishing Co.; counsel, Lambert Walther of Muench, Walther & Muench. C. H. Wetmore, who promoted the deal, having completed his work, resigned from the directorate in favor of Louis Schaefer.

At the next regular session of the Missouri State Legislature it was announced steps would be taken to have a testing plant provided for under the pure food law, with a view of preventing the manufacture of deleterious drinks or their preparation under unclean conditions.

AERO CLUB BUYS LAHM'S BALLOON

Bennett Cup Winner, "United States," Purchased by the Local Organization.

The St. Louis Aero Club has become the owner of the largest balloon in the United States, according to press dispatches from New York, and aside from that distinction, it is the balloon that won the first international contest for the James Gordon Bennett cup when Lieut. Frank S. Lahm of the United States Army piloted it safely from Paris across the English Channel and landed in England.

The balloon, prior to the Paris ascension, had been christened the "United States," and it will continue to bear that name. In it, the latter part of this month, Allan R. Hawley, the official pilot of the St. Louis Aero Club, will attempt to beat Lieut. Lahm's record for long flight, which is 402 miles.

Some time ago Mr. Hawley wrote to the officials of the St. Louis Club, advising them that it was his belief that the balloon could be purchased at a fair figure. The matter was taken up at the last meeting of the Borad of Governors in this city and they instructed President L. D. Dozier to authorize Mr. Hawley to proceed with negotiations, and to close the deal if he could make the purchase at the figures which he suggested.

Secretary Kearney of the Aero Club said Friday that Hawley had not advised the club of the purchase, but had merely telegraphed that he would undertake to buy the balloon.

The balloon is comparatively new, having been built for the Paris race, and it has seen very little service since.

Capacity of Big Bag.

The gas capacity of the "United States" is 2080 cubic meters, the next largest in this country having a capacity of 1700 cubic meters. The "Orient," in which Mr. Hawley and J. C. McCoy made the tests of the Laclede Gas Co.'s facilities for furnishing gas, and which is the property of the Aero Club of America, has a capacity of 1000 cubic meters, or less than half that of the balloon owned by the St. Louis Club.

J. C. McCoy is the owner of a balloon known as the "America," and it is probable that it will be in St. Louis within a short time. The present plan is to have him and Mr. Hawley try for the long distance record now held by Lieut. Lahm.

The "United States" will not participate in the Bennett Cup race unless it shall be found that the new balloon, now being constructed for the St. Louis Club in Paris, does not come up to requirements when tests are made. The new one, which will probably be called the "City of St. Louis," is about the same size as the "United States," and will be built along the same lines.

"Just to have a balloon in our stable," was Secretary Kearney's comment Friday in speaking of the purchase of the big racer. "You see, each member of the club is expected to buy one for practice and short runs, but we can use the 'United States' for moonlight excursions, and it can be rented to gentlemen who desire to go off for a short time for quiet conferences."

"Mice and Men" at the Olympic

NATURALLY enough, when they were married, Johnston Forbes-Robertson promised to "cherish" Gertrude Elliott and Gertrude Elliott promised to "obey" Johnston Forbes-Robertson—these being among other promises duly made at that interesting moment.

Well, Mr. Forbes-Robertson keeps his promise of cherishment by providing Miss Elliott with "Mice and Men," a sweet little comedy in which she can be the bright particular star as Peggy, the foundling hospital waif whom he, as Mark Embury, scholar, scientist and philanthropist, adopts with matrimonial intentions, and Miss Elliott keeps her promise of obedience by playing the Peggy role precisely as Mr. Forbes-Robertson tells her to play it. The result was seen at the Olympic Theater last night.

It's quite a pleasing result. The modest story of the Georgian era written for the stage by Madeline Lucette Ryley is a nice, sentimental, lavenderish sort of thing, with gentle humor, faint touches of pathos, much atmosphere of the brocade and lace-ruffle days of a century or so ago, and the quaint and ceremonious manners that go with such an environment. It tells of how the middle-aged Embury trained Peggy to be his wife only to discover that she loved his handsome officer-nephew instead and would be heartbroken if she couldn't have the young Capt. George Lovall for a husband. That's all—except that I leave you to guess the ending, knowing that you can't miss your guess.

Miss Ellicott plays Peggy quite prettily. Peggy has been disciplined to the prunes-and-prisms primness demanded by foundling asylum rules, but she's a true daughter of Eve, no matter what mother it was that left her on the foundling steps. Her young, womanly heart swells with coquetry the very first moment the fascinating Capt. Lovall comes within her ken. The feminine vanity that so aided and abetted the serpent in the garden in the world's beginning fairly riots with exultation when Peggy, planning a clandestine lark at the masquerade ball at Belsize House, discovers how beautiful she is in the lovely gown smuggled to her by the scheming Mistress Joanna Goodlake.

And at the ball itself, and in the sad misadventures and misunderstandings arising from it, Peggy is one of the most delightfully appealing young creatures whom you could hope to encounter in a day's travel. Gertrude Elliott has, I believe, the most youthfully joyous voice, either in sudden little cries of rapture or ripples of laughter, I ever heard in my life. It's this voice that makes the success of Peggy, because Miss Elliott lends it to her at critical moments and it never fails to make every woman in the house gurgle with appreciation of her. I credit last night's hit to this voice, reinforced by the demure charm of the Forbes-Robertson conception of the Peggy role.

And I call it the Forbes-Robertson conception because Forbes-Robertson is an Englishman and Gertrude Elliott is an American girl and Peggy herself is as English as plum pudding, hence I know the English husband has taught his American wife how to play this part. Miss Elliott has even learned to purse up her lips after the English manner; her smile is an English damsel smile, and beyond all question the peculiar and tantalizing inflections of her voice are English. There's an upshoot at the ending of sentences, and sometimes, puzzlingly enough, in their very middle, and an old-fashioned English child way of saying "his la-a-adylove," that would no more come naturally to an American girl than did the Scotch high-ball commend itself originally to the American young man who now clamors for it on the slightest provocation. But all these Anglicisms on the part of Gertrude Elliot are very much nicer even than Scotch high-balls, because they're crowned by her joyous laugh and the general joyousness of her whole physical being—and these latter possessions of Miss Elliott are purely American, since there's no happier human in the world than an American girl.

Anyway, it's all very sweet and pretty in "Mice and Men"—a play so named because Burns once wrote that "the best-laid schemes of mice and men gang oft agley," and this is precisely what hapens to Mark Embury's best-laid scheme. Forbes Robertson plays a fine, feeling, humorously pathetic Embury, remindful at times of the work of Mr. Willard in "The Professor's Love Story," and very delicate in its artistic finish. The Capt. Lovall of Mr. Vernon Steel is an excellent bit of juvenile comedy work, breezy, buoyant and strengthened by a physical attractiveness above the average. Keen character work is seen in the Kit Barniger, "fiddler and master of deportment" of Mr. Charles Bibby. Miss Bourne as Joanna Goodlake, Mr. Charles Langley as Roger Goodlake, Mr. J. Herbert Beaumont as Sir Henry Trimblestone and Miss Kate Carlyon as Mrs. Deborah, Embury's housekeeper, all give competent comedy portrayals.

"Hamlet" is the bill for tonight, presenting Mr. Forbes-Robertson in the role in which he is now said to be without an equal on the English-speaking stage.

BROWNS AND SOX IN FANNING BEE PLAY OLD GAMES

Go Back to Other Days on the Diamond and Some Great Tales of Games Lost by Zealous Players Are Told.

SOME YARNS ON "POP" ANSON

AS might have been expected, there was a great fanning bee at the Southern Hotel last night between White Sox, the Browns and the Chicago newspaper men who are making the trip with the Windy City champions of the world.

With Comiskey and McAleer on hand it was not long before the talk got around to old times on the diamond. Comiskey, of course, went back to the times before McAleer was in the game, but the first thing Jimmy asked for when he was able to talk was the sporting page of one of the Youngstown papers and there was nothing happened in baseball from that time on that he was not posted about.

It was a friendly bunch of players that sat in the corridor of the hotel and talked old times over. The fact that the Browns had beaten the White Sox in the afternoon did not enter into the spirit of the affair at all. As a rule baseball orchards are the favorite breeding places of green-eyed monsters. If there is a class that beats choir singers and chorus ladies all hollow for jealousy it is the professional ballplayer. Each one knows all his own good points and all the weak points of the others, and the best that can be got out of any one is like the Irishman's praise of his dead fellow-laborer, "He wor a good shoveler, but he wor not what ye would call a fancy shoveler."

This jealousy sometimes results in ludicrous situations and funny happenings.

Not many years ago a player of exceptional promise, but young, quit the Chicago club, according to Charlie Dryden of the Chicago Tribune, and was in the sulks nearly half a season because his rival for a position on the team was given a lower berth one night when he was forced into an upper.

One of the funniest instances of jealousy among players that ever came to notice happened when Anson was running the Chicago club. That spring he recruited a staff of pitchers that filled the whole West Side Park. He had more pitchers than he could count, and they loved each other—not. Every man was jealous of every other one, and nervous about holding his job. One day Anson called upon big Walter Thornton, one of the recruits, to pitch. The big fellow was one of the best natural hitters that ever broke into the game. He hit left-handed, and he stung them. That day, besides pitching fair ball, he rammed out four hits.

Green Eyes on Bench.

The other candidates sat on the benches and looked at each other anxiously as Thornton banged the ball around the lot, and every hit he made caused them deeper woe.

That evening, just as the sun was setting, a delegation of Cub pitchers slipped out to the clubhouse, ravaged Thornton's locker, took out his bats, secured Charlie Kuhn's saw, and proceeded to saw up every bat Thornton owned.

Many a good player is held back for years by the jealousy of other players, who strive to keep him from getting a chance to show what is in him—if anything.

Little Tommy Hess, when he was at Baltimore, suffered from this in a way that was laughable. There were two other catchers on the team—both veterans, and they would have lost an arm before they would have let Tommy have a chance. He sat on the bench week after week, eager and ready to jump in and prove his worth.

Finally he thought his day had come. One of the catchers had been laying off for 10 days with a split hand—and the other was working. A foul tip in the first inning of a game put that catcher out of business. Before Hanlon could say a word Hess had on a protector and was starting for the plate, when the man with the split hand grabbed the mask and protector from him and went in. That broke Hess' heart—and he never caught a game for the team.

How Nichols Was Frozen Out.

When little Arthur Nichols went to Chicago he met with a game of freeze-out that was much like that of Hess. Tim Donohue and Mall Kittredge, great rivals, were doing the catching, and Tim was determined not to give Nic a chance. Everybody in the team was on, and, although no one knew how good or bad Nic was, they stayed awake at night to tell Tim what a wonder he was.

During the training season the gang would get together, and, for Tim's benefit, recite wonderful things about Nichols. The day before the season opened an exhibition game was played at Indianapolis. Roger Denzer was pitching and he had speed—he had speed. The day was bitterly cold, and late in the game one of Denzer's fast ones went wide. Tim grabbed at it, and split his hand an inch between the first two fingers.

Tim immediately went to a doctor, who wanted to charge $10 for sewing up the wound. Tim refused to pay. He appealed to a fellow-player to fix the hand. It was a weird surgical job, performed with needle and thread purchased at a drug store—but they got it patched up finally, bound electric tape around the two fingers and the hand and let it go at that.

Kittridge was sick—and it appeared that Nichols would have to catch the opening game at Cincinnati. To the surprise of everybody, Tim appeared ready for action in the opening game—and, with his hand in that condition, caught and stuck to it until Kittridge was ready to relieve him.

Worked Double Cross Freely.

Players have been known deliberately to sacrifice the interests of the team to beat a fellow-player out of credit for some play. It is a hard thing to prove, but there are cases where a man on first signaled the batter to hit, as he was going to steal, and then the batter deliberately let the ball go and let the runner be thrown out at second. This happened on the old Chicago club so many times that Anson was forced to put one player on the bench for "double crossing" Lange to let him be caught stealing.

Lange himself, however, did one of those tricks—but there was nothing mean about his act. It was laughable.

Lange was on second base in a game toward the end of the season. He was leading the league in base running, but someone was pressing him hotly for the honors, and was withing one or two steals of him at the time. The game was close and Chicago needed a run. Lange opened the inning with a two-bagger—and the next man was sent up to sacrifice Lange to third. The player laid down a perfect bunt and was thrown out—but Lange remained at second, never even offering to move.

Anson was purple with rage. On the next pitched ball Lange stole third as clean as a whistle—and Anson was bordering on apoplexy when the big fellow trotted home with the winning run.

Was Jealous of Jones.

There was a certain outfielder on the White Sox team not long ago who was jealous of Jones. The man should have been a great ball player, but, because of his disposition more than anything else, he fell short of being great.

When this man was not hitting well he quit. In the language of racing, "his dauber went up." He would let Jones race clear across his field and get flies and never move. But when that fellow began to get base hits and move up in the batting average, his jealousy of the manager would break forth violently. His criticisms of Jones were bitter, and he refused to permit the manager to take one step into his territory to get a fly ball.

The beauty of Jones' character was never better shown than during those times, for he sacrificed himself at every opportunity, let the other fellow make the plays that he could have made just as easily—and boosted the jealous one's average as hard as he could, hoping to keep him going. Then the fellow would have a little run of hard luck—and quit again—making Jones cover double territory.

PENN SWIMMER ON CRAWL STROKE

The swimming squad of the Missouri Athletic Club will take its final practice tonight for the tournament with the strong team from the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday night. The Pennsylvania men will meet the University of Illinois tonight and will arrive in St. Louis tomorrow morning.

Edward Hopkinson Jr., captain of the Penn swimmers, was in St. Louis yesterday for a few hours. "Two years ago," said he to Dute Cabanne, at the M. A. C., "the crawl stroke was an unintelligible phrase to all those not familiar with late innovations in the style of swimming, but within the past year its fame and progress have been remarkable, and every swimming club in the country now has one or more of its members trying to master the peculiar knack of this stroke. A large share of the prominence that the 'crawl' has achieved is probably due to the wonderful prowess of C. M. Daniels of the New York Athletic Club, and his remarkable success in clipping seconds off the short-distance records.

"The new stroke is said to have originated in an odd way. Two friends in Australia were swimming a race and one of them quite easily outdistanced the other. The next time they swam, the former swimmer, as a handicap, had his legs tied, but even then, to everyone's surprise, his victory was as conclusive as before. After a little experimenting he expounded the theory that in old-fashioned swimming the resistence of the water as the legs are drawn up and spread out quite counterbalanced the power created when the legs were struck out.

FINE FOR THE BLOOD.

Get the following from any good prescription pharmacy and mix by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful of this mixture after each meal and again at bedtime.

This harmless Vegetable Prescription, while simple, inexpensive and easily prepared at home, is said to take from the blood and system all impurities, acids and decomposed waste matter, restoring even the most impure blood to its full health and richness. If a few doses are taken occasionally it will make you feel well and hearty during the entire season. Try it, anyway.

KANSAS TO PLAY ST. LOUIS U. TWICE

Jayhawkers Have Made Great Showing in Their Games Here So Far.

SMITH PLAYS WELL

Kansas University's baseball team, after beating Washington University in easy fashion now begins a series of two games with St. Louis University at Kulage's Park.

Washington University, playing even a worse article of ball than that which they exhibited Wednesday against Kansas, were again overwhelmingly defeated by the Jayhawkers Thursday afternoon by the score 11-0. Kansas batted well, but it was the slovenly work of Washington that gave them the game. At present the Myrtle and Maroon team appears woefully weak and it will be only the hardest kind of work during the intervening time that will enable it to make a creditable showing against Missouri next week.

The showing of St. Louis University yesterday when Smith Academy held them to five to five tie in ten innings of play, was not a very encouraging sign that the Blue and White school will have much better success against Kansas than Washington. But the team did not play its best game, being inclined to loaf and take things easy and so may be counted on to put up a much improved game against K. U. today.

The baseball characteristics of Kansas and the Grand avenue are very similar, both being composed of rather experienced, hard-hitting, big men. Neither team has a world of speed, though St. Louis is much the superior in this respect, but lacks the condition and team work of the visitors. Kansas is not a brilliant team but simply an even tenored, hard-working bunch, and St. Louis U., which has some scintillating individual stars, has a royal chance of at least breaking even in the series of two games. Young and Fitzporter will be in the points for St. Louis, while Kauffman and Brookings will form the battery for Kansas.

Director of athletics Ewerhardt gave out the statement yesterday that the plans for the holding of the second annual interscholastic meet under the auspices of Washington University had been set for May 18.

Tomorrow afternoon the crippled Central High School track team will meet the strong Freshman team of Washington University in a dual meet. The 'varsity men should win handily.

If you have to catch that train, you have to be on time, and if you have to be on time you have to wear one of my watches, $1 down, $1 week.

READY FOR OPENING GAMES OF LEAGUE OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Schedules and Score Cards in Hands of Teams Which Will Begin Contest Saturday for the Post-Dispatch Prizes—Parochial League Formed.

COPIES of the schedule of the Post-Dispatch Public School Bastball League were delivered to the captains of the 45 public school teams in the league Friday morning. Official score cards for Saturday's opening games were sent with the schedules. Cards for further games will be given out at the office of the league in the Post-Dispatch Building.

Every game must be played on the morning or afternoon designated in the schedule. Any team failing to appear on the grounds on schedule time will forfeit the game by a score of 0 to 9 to the team appearing.

If bad weather makes the game impossible or if for any reason the two teams cannot get their grounds to play on they must appear the same or next day at the office of the league and there arrange for the game to be played on a midweek day or another Saturday.

If two teams meet on the grounds designated in the schedule and then find that they cannot play owing to the conditions of the grounds or interference from any cause the two captains must make the best effort they can to have the game played on some nearby grounds before letting the time set for the game slip by. These rules are necessary owing to the great number of teams in the league and the confusion that would result from the shifting of dates.

Word was received at the office of the school baseball editor Friday that the athletic directors of Christian Brothers' College had organized the Parochial School Baseball League, which the Post-Dispatch suggested several weeks ago. There are 14 teams in this League.

All the games of this League will be played on the C. B. C. campus and the playing out of its schedule will be under the direction of the Christian Brothers' College athletic directors.

The Post-Dispatch will print the news of the league, give prizes to the winners and arrange a championship series between the pennant winners of the Public School League and the pennant winner of the Parochial School League.

The Parochial School League is composed of the following teams: St. Vincents, St. James, St. Bridgets, St. Alphonsus, St. Malachys, St. Anns, St. Leos, St. Theresas, Holy Names, Visitations, St. Mathews, St. Kevins, St. Roses, St. Marks.

GREAT BATTLE IN THE LONG RACE

The race for the individual cross-country championship Saturday, between Millhouse of the Central Y. M. C. A. and Forshaw of the M. A. C. will be one of the prettiest struggles ever seen in St. Louis for this distance. Both men are in splendid condition and the rivalry between them is cleanly keen.

Forshaw has the advantage of having much more experience in this kind of running, having won the race two years ago, been a contestant in the Athens Marathon and winner of the M. A. C. race for the same distance. He will be able, accordingly, to run his race with more judgment and has perhaps better stamina and endurance than the Y. M. C. A. man. But on the other hand, Millhouse has a style peculiarly adapted to cross-country running, a remarkable record at the mile, and a better burst of speed than the Cherry Diamond man. It will be a beautiful race between them.

DEMOCRATS FAIL TO RATIFY VICTORY OF ELECTION DAY

Mayor Wells, New Members of City Council and Harry B. Hawes Do Not Attend Jollification Meeting and Banquet of the Jefferson Club.

MAYOR WELLS, the six new members of the City Council, and "that old war-horse," Harry B. Hawes, gave the "cold-shoulder" to the Jefferson Club ratification meeting Thursday night to celebrate, as President August Heman said, "the glorious Democratic victory of April 2." Not one of the successful candidates for whom the Democracy "fought, bled and almost died," attended the ratification of his own election.

Mayor Wells and Mr. Hawes were advertised as star attractions, but when neither had put in his appearance at 10 p. m. and the list of orators had been exhausted President Heman abruptly dismissed the meeting with the declaration that "we have not been able to reach either the Mayor or the ex-president of this club, and it is not worth while to wait any longer for them."

Robert H. Kern, a former president of the club, said he had traveled 700 miles to attend the meeting, and thought it was a shame, or words to that effect, that persons living five or six blocks away could not get to the meeting. Many Democrats left the hall at the close of the meeting, complaining bitterly because the Mayor, especially, whose administration the Jefferson Club has championed, did not come. Hawes and the Council members also came in for censure.

"Boys" Waiting for Mayor.

The City Hall "boys," who are eager for reappointment, were lined up in the front seats to give the Mayor a rousing reception. The palms of their hands were itching with enthusiasm, and for "something else," as Chairman Mike Mulvihill of the City Committee said. While Mr. Mulvihill did not go to the extent of giving a specific definition of "something else," other speakers did.

Even during the heat of the campaign it was impossible to get out such a large crowd as attended Thursday night's meeting. All the "card bearers" of the party, whose record of work at the polls is carefully filed away in the desks of their superiors, were there. The City Hall jobs are ripe for plucking, and the aspirants are not overlooking anything now.

Glendy Arnold touched a popular cord by boldly declaring he was a "spoilsman," and that as the Democrats were victors at the recent electon, they shoud have the "spoils." That was the kind of talk the "hungry boys" wanted to hear, and moreover, they wanted the Mayor, who is the appointing power, to hear it.

"St. Louis owes the Democratic party a debt of gratitude," Arnold said. "And I want to say that among the 60,000 or more good, loyal Democrats in St. Louis, there are plenty of competent men to fill every job at the City Hall. (Loud and prolonged applause.)

Ought to Have the Jobs.

"The mishaps of the Republican party has demonstrated to us that nobody but a good, loyal Democrat is fit to hold office under a Democratic administration. (Thunderous applause, with band playing "That Ain't No Lie.")

"The party which elects the ticket ought to have the jobs. The Democrats won, and they are entitled to the spoils. I am a spoilsman. I believe that when the Democrats win they are entitled to the jobs, and when the Republicans win they ought to have them. (More applause, with cries of 'Good Boy, Glendy.'

"We can have a business administration conducted by Democrats. I don't take much stock in this clamor of business men for business administrations. I want to see good, competent Democrats filling every job the party is entitled to.

Arnold was followed by Chairman Mulvihill, who told how hard the "boys" in the Twenty-first Ward had worked for the success of the Democratic ticket, and how they would like to be rewarded for their work by "getting something else that we all like to get." Chairman Mulvihill sat down amid great applause, and the playing of the "Wearing of the Green," by the orchestra.

President Heman called the meeting to order and stated its purposes. He thanked the workers who had conducted the campaign and complimented Louis Kunz, M. J. Mulvihill, John F. Lee and Edward F. Goltra.

Mayor and "War Horse" Missing.

Robert H. Kern, former president of the club, said he had traveled 700 miles to be present, and that he would talk while they were waiting for Mayor Wells and "that old war horse," Harry B. Hawes to come. Mr. Kern talked a long time, but still the Mayor and the war horse did not appear, and he gave way to other speakers. Mr. Kern talked about the victory, the $11,000,000 bond issue, the deathless principles of the Democratic party, and the encouragement that the local victory had given to party leaders all over the country. He said the Democrats were going into the presidential fight next year in a united body and would win.

Cornelius Fauntleroy told what he was going to do when Bryan was elected President. "This club is going down to the Hermitage at Nashville, May 30, but I hope we will go 50,000 strong to Washington in the spring of 1909 to see William Jennings Bryan inaugurated. I expect to stay up for three nights then and sleep on the curbstone. I don't want to go to bed at all."

Speaker O'Brien of the House of Delegates and James T. (Pokey) Brennan of the Twenty-sixth Ward made the last speeches. Mr. Heman then announced that the meeting would close, as he supposed that Mayor Wells and Harry Hawes were afraid to come out to the meeting and face so many office seekers.

PABST AND WOMEN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Millionaire Brewer and Friend's Wife Run Down by Street Car.

MILWAUKEE, April 12.—Frederick Pabst, millionaire brewer, and Mrs. Leon Barnickel, wife of a well known athletic instructor, were seriously hurt last night in an automobile accident. Both are at Trinity Hospital, but will recover.

Mr. Pabst left home a short time before to meet the manager of one of his ranches. On his way downtown he met Mrs. Barnickel, a friend of the famiy. She was on her way to the armory to meet her husband, with whom she was going to the dog show.

Mr. Pabst invited her into the automobile and started for the armory, when they were run down by a trolley car. Mrs. Barnickel was thrown to the pavement, while Mr. Pabst remained in his wrecked automobile and was dragged 150 feet over the muddy pavement. Both were picked up unconscious and carried to a drug store and then removed to the Trinity Hospital by the police. They are still unconscious, but will recover.

Mrs. Barnickel is the more seriously hurt. Her face was cut and bruised and it is feared she will be disfigured for life.

Mr. Pabst suffered injuries about the head.

WAR ON FLAT WHEEL CARS.

North St. Louis Business Men Condemn Company.

Speeches condemning the United Railways Co. for inadequate service occupied most of the time of the meeting of the North St. Louis Business Men's Association Thursday night. The association decided to stand with the Affiliated Business Men's Association in their efforts to compel the street car company to furnish better service.

J. H. Gundlach declared that the company's tracks are sway-backed in a great many places, that many of the cars have flat wheels, and that their movements are attended with unnecessary noise and that the tracks in many places are sunken, causing the street paving to crack. He concluded by saying that the company had turned a deaf ear to all complaints. A. G. Nahm, and John C. Robertson spoke along the same lines.

It was decided to send a delegation of ten to the deep waterways convention, to be held in Memphis next November.

CAMPAIGN IN O'FALLON.

Three Tickets Up for Voters Next Tuesday.

Three sets of candidates are after the municipal offices in O'Fallon, Ill. The annual election is to be held next Tuesday. A hard fight by all parties leaves the outcome of the contest rather doubtful.

The candidates on the Citizens' ticket are John Seddon, for Mayor; Rudolph Kampmeyer, for Clerk; J. J. Quinn, for Treasurer; Horace Evans for Marshal; Dom Zitzmann, for Superintendent of Streets; William C. Ahrens for Alderman, First Ward; Charles Ahrens, for Alderman, Second Ward; S. E. McGeehon, for Alderman, Third Ward.

Citizens' ticket No. 2 is: Mayor, Dr. F. T. Varney; Clerk, William R. Lawrence; Treasurer, W. S. Bowler; Marshal, J. H. Davison; Superintendent of Streets, James McGinley; Alderman, First Ward, George Brockhahn; Alderman, Second Ward, James F. Taylor; Alderman, Third Ward, Anton Brewer.

The Socialist party has nominated: For Mayor, Walter B. Rundle; Clerk, H. B. Kerr; Treasurer, John Tiley; Marshal, Hayes Pierpoint; Alderman, First Ward, J. H. Sanders.

New Armory Gets $2000.

A campaign for subscriptions to raise $100,000 with which to buy property and build a new armory on the east side of Grand avenue, between Clark and Manchester avenues, has been begun by members of the First Infantry, National Guard of Missouri. Col. E. J. Spencer said it was his intention to mail subscription blanks to all owners of real estate in the city to the amount of $50,000 or more. All the officers and members of the regiment have been provided with subscription blanks to use in working among their friends. An unsolicited subscription of $1000 toward the fund from Mayor Wells was announced Thursday at the regiment headquarters, Locust street and Leffingwell avenue. A similar subscription, heretofore unannounced, was received a week ago from the J. Kennard & Sons Carpet Co.

Not a Question of Title.

In examining jurors in Judge Sale's division of the Criminal Court Thursday afternoon Attorney Thomas Stanton inadvertently addressed a physician as "Mr." Then he begged the gentleman's pardon. "Are you apologizing for saying 'Mr.' instead of 'Dr.'?" asked Judge Sale. "Yes, Your Honor," replied Stanton. "Well, you need not do it," replied the Judge. "'Mr.' is just as honorable as 'Dr.' or any other title. It all depends on the man. Gentleman is the highest type of creation. I would just as soon be called 'Mr.' as 'Judge' so long as my conscience is clear and my standing among my fellow men correct."

The Doctor Writes of Counterfeiters.

Hyannis, Mass., Aug. 17, 1905.

CHAS. H. FLETCHER, New York City.

Dear Mr. Fletcher:—I wish to congratulate you on your numerous victories over counterfeiters and imitators of Castoria, and trust the time is not far distant when these inferior and dangerous mixtures will be entirely suppressed.

You are right when you say in your advertisements that it is "Experience against Experiment."

I feel it to be an outrage, and an imposition upon the parents of little children that my name should be associated with imitations of Castoria, dangerous to the health and life of these little ones who too often fight their battles for life in vain.

Let me again commend you for the high standard you have maintained in the preparation of my prescription, and I confidently believe it is due to this scrupulous integrity you are indebted for the wonderful sale of Castoria to-day, and the steady growth it has had since I gave you the details of its mauufacture in my laboratory thirty-three years ago.

W. L. DOUGLAS

BEST IN THE WORLD. $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN

Do you wear W.L.Douglas shoes? If not, I believe I can give you good and sufficient reasons why it will pay you to wear them.

I give the wearer the benefit of my thorough and practical knowledge of shoemaking, which has extended over fifty years.

I give the wearer the benefit of my exclusive method of tanning the bottom soles, which makes them more flexible and gives longer wear than any other sole leather produced in this country.

As I am the largest manufacturer of men's fine Hand-Sewed Process shoes in the world, it is necessary for me to purchase leather and other materials in enormous quantities; the benefit of the very low prices I obtain I give to the wearer in superior quality over other makes.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer and are of greater value than any other make.

W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass.
I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for several years. They have always given satisfaction. I consider them equal to other makes for which I have paid $5 and $6.
A. BEECHER, Pullman Conductor, 4351 Maryland Ave.

These are a few of the reasons why I make and sell more Men's Fine Hand-Sewed Process $3.50 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

Lost and Found

IF YOU LOSE ANYTHING—Advertise it here. It will be returned to you if an honest person finds it. Remarkable recoveries are brought about every day through this column. All druggists receive Want Ads for the Post-Dispatch at office rates.

IF YOU FIND ANYTHING bring it to the Post-Dispatch

Lost and Found Bureau,
210-212 North Broadway.

Get a claim check. Have it advertised. Reclaim it if the owner does not.

THE LAW—People who find lost articles are interested in knowing that the State Law (section 8475 to 8480, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1890), is strict in requiring them to seek the owners through advertisement and otherwise, and that a failure to do so, if same can be proven, involves a severe penalty.

O'Fallon Park Lots

and New Flats.

BUY NOW BEFORE PIRCES ADVANCE

They are going fast. You will have to hurry, only a few left. Others go on the advanced price. Lot 30x156 to a 15-foot alley; granitoid sidewalks, city water, sewer, gas, and street lights. Will sell you one of these lots on very easy terms, or will sell you nice 3 and 5, 4 and 5, or 5 and 6-room, new, modern flats; with fine bathrooms, hot and cold water, furnaces, gas, and electric light, and all of the latest and most modern conveniences, on easy terms. Wanstrath Place is located 100 feet above the river, where you can enjoy the fresh air of O'Fallon Park. It is away from the dirt and dust of the street cars, but still surrounded by four different lines. Take Bellefontaine car to O'Fallon Park, get off on Athlone avenue, and walk two blocks south; inquire southeast corner of Carter and Athlone avs.; or take Lee, Taylor, or Suburban O'Fallon Park line.
WANSTRATH R. CO., 815 Chestnut st.

DO YOU KNOW

That the Fastest Growing Street in South St. Louis Is

GRAVOIS AVENUE

And that values are increasing on this busy thoroughfare at a surprising rate? There has been more development in Southwest St. Louis than in any other section of the city. From Grand avenue west to the city limits the street is being built up with substantial business blocks. Improvements that are permanent and lasting and in which large amounts of money are invested. The reason is that people are appreciating the many advantages of this, up to the present, neglected section. Hundreds of families are living where, two years ago, truck gardening was carried on.

At Spring and Gravois avenues we have 250 feet ripe for improvement, either with stores and flats or small houses.

At Gravois and Dresden avenues (in Humboldt Heights, which is nearly all built up) we have six 30-foot lots to sell at a very low price. These lots are ripe for stores—a grocery, hardware or drug store would do a big business here.

We will sell these lots cheap and will lend money to improve.

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

STOCK MARKET OPENS LOWER

Decline Pronounced; General List Loses a Point to Noon.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 12, 1 p. m.—The market showed professional trading and persistent, though fractional declines all forenoon. The coppers lost over a point, as did Union Pacific. The sales to noon were only a little over 400,000 shares.

NEW YORK, April 12, 10 a. m.—The market opening was ¼ to ¾ down, covering the general list. The few high places were New York Central, M., K. & T. preferred, Great Northern preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio and M., K. & T. common.

Coppers were weak on London opening on the decline in the price of the metal and the weaknesses extended to this market, carrying Anaconda, Amalgamated and Smelter 1 to 2 points down in 20 minutes.

The movement of the market the first half hour indicated a general decline, as the general list lost 1 point in that time.

WOMAN FASTS FORTY DAYS.

Is Attempting to Starve Out Rheumatism.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEBSTER CITY, Io., April 12.—Mrs. Harriet Closse of this city, who began fasting on March 3, has completed the fortieth day of her long fast. She is fighting a long and hard battle with rheumatism and after 15 years of fruitless efforts has at last hit upon the plan of starving out the disease.

Though not having tasted food for 40 days, Mrs. Closse is up and about the house doing her usual housework with not the slightest sign of fatigue. Before she began the fast she had rheumatism in every joint in her body, but she has now driven it to one arm and wrist. She expects to continue the fast until there is no rheumatic pain.

NEGRESS, CONJURER, HELD.

Charged With Using the Mails Fraudulently.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 12.—Alice Reed, colored, who lives near this city, was held today by Commissioner O'Brien on the charge of using the mails fraudulently. The negress enjoys the reputation among superstitious blacks as being a conjurer, and she has been using the mails to deliver her wares to customers. The consignment that brought her to grief was mailed several days ago at College Park, the Postoffice for the woman's college. An examination of the package showed three phials, each labeled with minute directions in a scrawling hand.

One contained soapsuds used to boil a pair of old socks, the second dust and the third dust and ground parched corn. The "medicine" was addressed to a colored woman in Charlestown, W. Va., to be used to conjure a negro woman who was about to be married. An investigation by Inspector Mosby developed the fact that the woman has been doing considerable business in the past three months, having received a number of money orders, some coming from as far as Philadelphia.

Boy Ends Life on Train.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BURLINGTON, Io., April 12.—Nineteen-year-old Paul Bouvia of Chicago, a nephew of Triff Bouvia of Burlington, ended his life on a Burlington train between Burlington and Monmouth, Ill., last night by taking carbolic acid. He had been visiting relatives here and started home. He was despondent because of losing his position.

East St. Louis News

J. L. Woodruff will give his lecture, "Around the World in Eighty Minutes," illustrated with stereopticon views, at the First M. E. Church Friday night, under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club.

At the election for schooltrustee, to be held Saturday in the Centerville Station Township, adjoining East St. Louis, Herman Brockman, who has been a trustee for several years is a candidate for re-election. No opposition has been announced. In the East St. Louis school township Ferdinand Theone is a candidate for trustee to take the place of O. C. Davis, whose term expires. He also has no opposition, up to date.

Frank A. Hyatt and Miss Vesta Crain were married Thursday night at the home of the bride's parents, 632 North Seventh street, by Rev. J. Gilliland.

The funeral of Grover Thompson, 21 years old, who died Wednesday night of pneumonia at his home, Eighteenth street and Exchange avenue, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. from the family residence to Mount Hope Cemetery.

John Matton, 50 years old, died Thursday at St. Mary's Hospital following an operation. He was an employe of the Terminal Railroad and boarded at Venice. He has no relatives known here, but is said to have a brother at Lynchburg, O. The body is being held until an effort is made to locate relatives.

Martin Beasenboeser, an employe of the American aluminum works in Alta Sita, was cut in the head by being struck by a bar of iron while working on the roof of the plant Thursday. He was taken to his home on Kansas avenue.

SCHOOL TEACHER ARRESTED

Miss Leona Watts Charged With Assault on Pupil.

Miss Leona Watts, a teacher in the Lebanon public schools, was arrested Thursday on a warrant charging her with assault and battery.

The complaint was made before Justice Wangelin of Belleville by George Boyce of Lebanon who alleges that Miss Watts whipped his son, Roy Boyce, aged 8, too severely in school. The boy was at the justice's office with his father and the justice was shown a number of black and blue places on his leg, asid to have been caused by the teacher.

Miss Watts was much chagrined over her arrest and held a consultation with the principal of the schools shortly after the warrant had been read to her. The Constable allowed her to stay in Lebanon upon her promise to appear in Justice Wangelin's court Saturday morning.

Friends of Miss Watts say the Boyce boy had caused much trouble in the school room and that a punishment was imperative for the goo of the school.

CATES AVENUE LOT SOLD.

Mr. George E. Bradley reports the sale of a lot on the north side of Cates avenue, at the corner of the walk between Goodfellow and Clara avenues, being 37 feet 6 inches front by a depth of 156 feet 7 inches, for the account of Mrs. Adeline H. and A. G. Souther, president of the Souther Iron Co., to Mr. E. T. Jett, who will erect a building under direction of the Bradley Building Co.

WOULD REGULATE WEALTH.

St. Louisan Tells How to Avoid "Social Strain."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 12.—At the American Church Congress of the Protestant Episcopal Church there was a discussion on the moral strain in "social and commercial life."

The Rev. H. C. Garrett of St. Louis said that the question of regulating corporate wealth was the first source of strained conditions and the second was the widespread departure from "the simple to the artificial mode of living."

Speaking on corporate wealth, he said: "It is a remarkable fact that nearly 8,000,000 families in this country average in holdings a little less than $500 each, while not over 200,000 families possess one half the entire wealth of the entire country. Out of the total annual income of the nation one-half goes to one-tenth of the people. The other half is divided among the remaining nine-tenths."

Accused of Forgery.

James H. Gray, a carpenter, 51 years old, was arrested Friday on a warrant charging forgery. He is acused of having used a bogus $25 check to pay a debt of $1 which he owed to William Mueller, a saloon keeper at 738 South Broadway.

WHEAT FUTURES SCORE LARGE GAIN

Sensational Damage Reports From Southwest Responsible for Heavy Demand.

CLOSED NEAR THE TOP

Other Grains Sympathized—Argentine News Bearish, but Not Noticed.

Local wheat futures made a sensational advance of over a cent at Friday's opening, and, although the trading thereafter was quiet, the advance was maintained, the close being 1⅛@1⅞c high for the day. Corn closed ½@⅝c higher and oats unchanged to 1c higher.

May wheat opened ⅜@½c higher at 76c, advanced to 77c, and closed at 76¾@76⅞c sellers. July wheat opened a full cent higher at 78⅞c, advanced to 79½c, and closed at 79⅜@79½c. September wheat opened 1c higher at 80c, and closed at 80⅛c bid.

May corn opened ¼c higher at 44c, advanced to 44⅜c, and colsed at 44¼c. July corn opened ⅜c higher at 46c, went as low as 45⅞c, and advanced at the close to 46¼c sellers.

May oats was inactive and unchanged at 42c bid. July oats opened ⅞c higher at 38½c, advanced to 38¾c, and closed at 38⅝c.

Argentine wheat shipments were 4,448,000 bu, against 3,504,000 bu last week, and 2,744,000 bu a year ago. Argentine shipments from Jan. 1 to date were 47,996,000 bu, an increase of 7,088,000 bu over the same period last year. The visible supply of wheat in Argentine is 2,864,000 bu, against 2,904,000 bu last week and 4,008,000 bu a year ago. The Argentine wheat market is very firm with a good demand. Arrivals from the interior are liberal and the quality satisfactory. The weather in Argentine is now good, and plowing is progressing under favorable conditions. Cables closed unchanged to ½d higher on spot wheat, and ⅜d higher on the futures. Paris closed unchanged to 1c higher on wheat, and unchanged to ¼c lower on flour. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged. Budapest wheat 1¼c lower, and Berlin wheat ⅛c higher.

The sensational damage reports from the Southwest were the dominent features of the domestic markets. Snow, who is investigating the Oklahoma crop for the Government, reports that half the crop of the State is practically dead, and that although the bugs are dieing where the wheat is, they are as active as ever in the live plant. Although no bug damage has been done as yet in Kansas, there are lots of the insects in that State, and conditions are said to be almost exactly the same as those of the infected parts of Oklahoma were three weeks ago. Kansas and the Southwest is still suffering for rain also. There was a good demand from the pit traders at the start, and commission houses had large buying orders from the Southwest. There were literally no offerings on the market at the opening, and prices advanced considerably over a cent in a few minutes. Trading slackened up after the early bulge, and the market was in a rather dull condition during the remainder of the session, although prices were supported at the high levels. The close was practically at the day's high point and was 1⅛c to 1⅞c higher for the day. There was a good cash demand for wheat today and prices were again slightly firmer. Primary receipts of wheat were 686,797 bu, against a holiday last year, and shipments were 183,728 bu. Local receipts were 21,927 bu and shipments were 15,965 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 454,000 bu and for the past week 1,800,000 bu.

The strength in wheat caused a good tone in corn, and prices advanced a fraction. Trading in corn was light, as were the offerings. The close was at the high point. Cables closed unchanged to 1½c higher on spot corn and unchanged to ¼d higher on futures. Argentine corn shipments were 40,600 bu, against none last week and 252,000 bu a year ago. Argentine corn shipments from Jan. 1 to date were 5,180,000 bu, an increase of 816,000 bu over the same period last year. The visible supply of corn in Argentine is 187,000 bu, against 114,100 bu last week and 731,000 bu a year ago. The Argentine corn market is inactive, but steady. There are practically no arrivals from the interior. Cash corn was in good demand today and values were firm. Primary receipts of corn were 450,280 bu and shipments were 567,225 bu. Local receipts were 83,810 bu and shipments 113,265 bu. Clearances of corn for the day were 255,000 bu and for the week 1,475,000 bu.

The oats market was strengthened by the advances in other grains and July was urgently sought for and lightly offered. May option was inactive and steady, but July closed 1c higher. The cash demand for oats was good and values were well supported. Clearances of oats for the day were 5000 bu.

The good cash demand at Minneapolis continues and today No. 1 Northern wheat was 2½@3c over May, with ¼@⅝c over. Minneapolis stocks increased 325,000 bu for the week. Following are the Northwestern car lots: Minneapolis, 349; Duluth, 187; Winnipeg, 116. Last year was a holiday.

Following is the Modern Miller crop outlook: Special inquiries regarding bug damage in Southern Kansas, Northern Oklahoma and Southwestern Missouri, show improved conditions in Oklahoma, slight to serious damage in Missouri, little or no damage to 25 per cent loss of the crop in Kansas. Elsewhere in the winter wheat belt crop conditions are unchanged. Reports generally continue favorable, except that rains are insufficient in the West and Southwest.

ST. LOUIS STOCKS FIRM AND QUIET

With Fractionally Stronger Quotations in the Bank and Trust List Only a Few Transactions Are Recorded—Tractions and Miscellaneous Stocks Quiet on Firm Prices.

Firmness in prices and reduced volume of transactions continue to mark the sessions of the Stock Exchange. Friday's forenoon session resulted in only fair sales, but a maintenance of prices all over the general list.

The session opened with a sale of Traction 4 per cent bonds firm at 82¼. Then trading turned on the National Candy issues and odd lots of the common sold at 18. Throughout the session the brokers holding buying orders returned to the bidding and bids all the way from 16¾ to 17⅞ were made. Some large lots were offered at 17⅞, but lots of less than 50 shares were offered not less than 17¾.

The market for Missouri-Lincoln Trust shares was fair and lots of 10 went at 125 3-6 and 126, odd lots at the latter price.

There was little doing in the market on traction preferred, odd lots of it going unchanged at 72, with the market bid and ask closing at 71½ and 72 asked. The close on Taction common was 34 to 36 and odd lots of common went at 35.

Chicago Railway Equipment showed decline in sales of 50-share lots at 8.85, with 8.90 asked at the close.

The bank and trust issues outside of Missouri-Lincoln were firm to higher, Commerce selling at 263¾, unchanged, and St. Louis Union 3½ points up from the last bid price of 374. Mercantile Trust sold off 2 points at 348, with 350 asked at the close. In the bidding and ask quotations Boatmen's Bank advanced from 233½@237 to 235 bid and 239 asked.

FINANCIAL.

Northern Pacific gross earnings for the month of March increased $346,000.

Reported from New York that Baltimore & Ohio is preparing to offer $25,000,000 for the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railway property in Chicago, to be sold shortly under mortgage foreclosure. The Hill interests have long been looked upon as probable purchasers.

The annual report of the Pennsylvania company just published showed the largest gross and net earnings in its history.

Additions to the payrools to meet increases allowed by officers of the company aggregate $1,750,000 annually on the St. Paul road.

General Manager R. D. Smith of the McKinley traction interests in St. Louis said Friday that construction work under the company's St. Louis franchises and its bridge charter will be commenced just as soon as working materials can be gathered for the work. An important conference of McKinley traction officials will be held in St. Louis next Wednesday, which will be attended by the president, William B. McKinley.

At the Vandalia general offices Friday it was stated that General Manager McKean has recovered health sufficiently to leave his bed and that he would within a week or 10 days go to Atlantic City for recuperation.

Gross earnings for the first week in April for Gould lines are reported as follows: Denver & Rio Grande, increase, $28,600; International & Great Northern, $28,000; Missouri Pacific, increase, $86,000; Central Branch, decrease, $1000; St. Louis & Southwestern (Cotton Belt), $24,521; Western Maryland, increase, $5,848.

Local bank clearings and balances: Clearings for Friday, $11,463,863; last week, $11,062,669. Balances, for today, $830,473; last week, $1,088,075. Increase clearings, $401,194; decrease balances, $207,602.

The banks continue to forward ample sums to the interior for planting purposes, the movement during the past week has only been of moderate proportions for the reason that correspondents of St. Louis institutions declare themselves in unusually good shape to care for neighborhood needs. Deposits of internal revenue receipts at local financial houses is a point of considerable interest at the present time. Rates are unchanged, with some buying of commercial paper by out of town banks at 5½ to 6 per cent.

Call money on the New York Exchange opened at 2¼ per cent, which was high up to noon, and 2 per cent low and last up to noon.

According to advices received by L. E. Townsley, general agent in St. Louis of the Union Pacific Railroad, the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake route of that system was opened for through traffic Friday. Livestock and perishable freight will be accepted after Saturday.

AROUND WORLD IN MINUTE.

It's All in a Dream, Says Prof. Jastrow.

"Lapses of Personality" will be the subject of a lecture Friday night by Prof. Joseph Jastrow of the Department of Psychology of the University of Wisconsin, at the Washington University Law School, Ewing avenue and Locust street. In his lecture Thursday night on "The Stuff That Dreams Are Made Of," Prof. Jastrow discussed the states of the subconscious mind that give rise to dreams, sleepwalking and somnambulism. A person in a delirious condition, he said, had an "intensified dream." He declared that no person is "hopelessly sane."

Patients of dentists, said Prof. Jastrow, often see many things in a few seconds, and imagine they are traveling thousands of miles. He quoted from Oliver Wendell Holmes and Prof. James of Harvard to show that the solution of difficult problems may be revealed during sleep.

Kaiser's Auto to Run Slower.

BERLIN, April 12.—The frequent motor car accidents have, it is stated, caused the Kaiser to give an order that the speed of his automobile shall be reduced hereafter. The announcement has brought relief as the reckless speed at which the Kaiser's car has hitherto been driven caused grave anxiety.

TELLS OF OUTLOOK FOR OPERA WEEK

Charles Henry Meltzer Says Successful Metropolitan Engagement Seems Assured.

Charles Henry Meltzer, who is in advance of the Metropolitan Opera House Company, has just arrived in St. Louis after visiting Baltimore, Washington, Boston and Chicago, where the Metropolitan singers have scored exceptional triumphs on the present tour, which began three weeks ago. He reports also that he finds that the advance sale for the St. Louis engagement, beginning at the Odeon next Wednesday evening, has been large and that the success of the season in this ciy seems now a foregone conclusion.

"In Chicago and in Boston," said Mr. Meltzer, "there has been so much enthusiasm this season that it is hard to see how it could well have been greater. On several occasions, notably in Boston, fully two thousand people were turned away from the doors of the Boston Theater during the engagement of the company.

"Caruso is singing as magnificently as ever and, with the one exception of Mme. Homer, all the artists were in splendid voice and health when I left the Auditorium in Chicago three nights ago. Mme. Homer has been rather seriously indisposed. But we hope she will be well enough to apear as Amneris on the opening night at the Odeon. Should she not her place will be very satisfactorily filled by Mme. Josephine Jacoby, as it was last week in Boston, where Mme. Jacoby scored a pronounced hit.

"Among other exceptionally attractive features of the coming engagement of the Odeon perhaps the most noteworthy in some ways will bt the performance of 'Madame Butterfly' in Italian. The use of the soft Italian idiom in singing Puccini's latest and best beloved opera will be found to add largely to the pleasure of the listeners. Moreover, thanks to the personal supervision of the composer, who was brought over to this country by Mr. Conried at great expense to rehearse his operas at the Metropolitan, many new charms of detail, both musical and scenic, will be brought out. Then, too, you will hear for the first time an astonishingly gifted young American soprano, Miss Geraldine Farrar, in the leading part of 'Madame Butterfly.'

"Equally remarkable, in many ways, will be the performance of 'Tannhaeuser.' There the orchestra is as important as the singers, and this year it has been in splendid form. The principals in the cast are of the first rank, including Mme. Rappold, who is making steady progress and who will sing Elizabeth; Mme. Olive Fremstad, whose Venus has never been surpassed as a realization of Wagner's goddess—even by her great teacher, Lilli Lehmann; Mr. Burgstaller, who will, I think, be at his best as Tannhaeuser, and Mr. Goritz, the Wolfram, one of the finest baritones on the lyric stage.

"Owing to the secession of Miss Bessie Abott you will hear a new and very talented Mimi, Mme. Ciaparelli-Viafora, in the part of Mimi on the last night of the engagement, when 'La Boheme' will be sung."

THREE YEARS FOR BIGAMIST.

Ralph Edgar Montrose Pleads Guilty in Clayton.

Upon his plea of guilty to a charge of bigamy, Ralph Edgar Montrose was sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary by Judge McElhinney of the Circuit Court at Clayton Friday. The prosecuting witness was Lottie Lynes, to whom he was married at Clayton May 26, 1906. She was much disappointed because the Prosecuting Attorney accepted the plea. She wanted him tried in the hope that he would get the limit sentence.

The first wife, who was Miss Jessie Anderson, and to whom he was married at Greenville, Ill., Aug. 26, 1905, was not in court as a witness. She is now living in Terre Haute, Ind., where Montrose was arrested several weeks ago.

Montrose met Lottie Lynes, who was also known as Lottie Bennett, that being her mother's name by her last marriage, at an Olive street skating rink. After several months courtship they went to Clayton and were married under the names of Charles A. Wilkes and Lottie Bennett.

He left her two months later and went back to his first wife. The second wife began an investigation, which resulted in the discovery of the first marriage, and the issuance of the warrant.

Mrs. Mollie Myers, sister of Lottie Lynes, and Mrs. Emma Bennett, her mother, were both in court and were much disappointed when Montrose got off with a three years' prison sentence.

WOULDN'T TAKE WATCH.

Highwayman Also Gave Back Silver Money to Laborer.

As Henry Zensen, 26 years old, of 1460 Chambers street, on his way home early Friday, turned the corner of Fourteenth and Chambers streets, he was confronted by two men, one of whom pointed a revolver at his head.

"Hold up your hands," commanded the highwayman, who was over 6 feet tall. His companion, a man about 5 feet 4 inches tall, stood by in silence.

Zensen did as he was told, and the short highwayman searched his pockets, taking $20 in bills.

"Are you a working man?" asked the short one as he removed some silver from Zensen's trousers.

"Yes," replied Zensen.

"Then I guess you need this change." The robber placed the silver back in its owner's pocket.

"That watch you are taking was a present to me," said Zensen, still peering into the muzzle of the revolver.

"Then you can keep it," said the highwayman, returning it.

Zensen was then ordered to turn around and as he did so the highwaymen fled. A block away Zensen met two policemen and told them of his experience.

"We saw you in conversation with those two fellows, but we did not think they were robbers," said the policemen, as they hurried after the highwaymen. The latter had disappeared.

Musicians to Celebrate.

A night of jollification and thanksgiving for their escape from death at the time of the San Francisco earthquake has been planned by the members of the Metropolitan Opera House Orchestra of New York for Thursday evening, April 18, in St. Louis. That will be the anniversary of the catastrophe, and the orchestra will be playing in St. Louis. Its leader has written to officers of the Aschenbroedel Club asking them to provide a suitable hall in which to hold the celebration, which will take place after the evening performance.

Prof. Matthews to Lecture.

Prof. Shailer Mathews of Chicago University and Rev. J. P. Green, president of William Jewell College, will deliver addresses following the banquet which the officers and members of the St. Louis Baptist Social Union will give at the Washington Hotel next Tuesday evening. Prof. Mathews' subject will be "France and the Vatican." Dr. Green will speak on "Baptists as Exponents of Religious Liberty." Mr. and Mrs. Sheffield will give musical selections.

For Delicate Women

It Builds Strength

What is medicine for? To cure you, if sick, you say.

But one medicine will not cure every kind of sickness, because different medicines act on different parts of the body.

One medicine goes to the liver, another to the throat, another to the spine, Wine of Cardui to the womanly organs.

So that is why Wine of Cardui has proven so efficacious in most cases of womanly complaints.

Most female troubles are caused simply by lack of strength. Delicate women particularly suffer on this account. The most obvious way to help them is to give them a medicine which will bring them the strength that they lack—womanly strength.

This is what Cardui does, and why it has been so wonderfully successful during the past 50 years.

Mrs. Wm. Turner of Bartonville, Ill., writes: "I suffered for eight years with various female ills. I doctored and doctored without relief. My back and head would hurt me, so I would have to lie down. I suffered untold agony. No one can ever know how I suffered. At last I began to take Wine of Cardui; it has improved me wonderfully and brought comfort to me in many ways. I am now in good health, can do all my own work and my nerves are stronger."

OZOMULSION GUARANTEED
Under the Food and Drugs Act June 30th, 1906.—Serial No. 332

Weak Lungs Mean Starved Body

Ozomulsion

The Cod Liver Oil Emulsion "Par Excellence."

Heals the Lungs; Nourishes the Body

Consumption, Pneumonia and nearly all Pulmonary Diseases are produced by lack of THE NECESSARY FOOD. Once the body resistance is lowered, the lungs become easily diseased through germs constantly in the atmosphere.

All Foods do not fatten, because they cannot suppy the excessive waste and loss of Tissue by disease.

There Is But One Cure For Lung Disease—

OZOMULSION FOOD

Beneficial results are obtained after the First Dose.

There are two sizes—8-oz. and 16-oz. Bottles; the Formula is printed in 7 languages on each.
